OPEC terrorists offered getaway plane

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — The Austrian government gave in early Monday to terrorists, believed to be Palestinians, who shot their way into the headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and seized about 70 hostages.

It agreed to fly them to an undisclosed destination, probably Algeria, and let them take along a comrade seriously wounded in a gun battle at OPEC headquarters. Two security guards and a Libyan were killed in the attack, Austrian authorities reported.

The terrorists had threatened to blow up the seven-story building on the Ring Strasse in downtown Vienna if not given a DC9 by 7 a.m. 1 a.m. EST Monday.

One of the six terrorists was hospitalized with a serious stomach wound and doctors first said he could not be moved. But the five terrorists in the headquarters insisted and the Austrian government gave in.

"We think he can survive the flight," Health Minister Ingrid Leodolter told newsmen. "He is only 19."

An Iraqi OPEC official not taken hostage said Algeria had agreed to accept the terrorists, who styled themselves "The Army of the Arab revolution," and hostages.

The government got an Austrian Airlines DC9 and three pilots ready to fly the terrorists out on condition they release the Austrian employes of OPEC and that the non-Austrian hostages agreed to join in the flight.

One official described it the most dramatic terrorist action since the siege at the Munich Olympic Games in 1972 when Arab gunmen attacked the Israeli team.

The six terrorists, including a woman, invaded the headquarters building during a routine year-end meeting of the OPEC oil ministers shortly before noon Sunday. Vienna police said they shot and killed an Austrian police officer, an OPEC security guard from Iraq and a Libyan.

They captured 11 ministers from Iran, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Algeria, Equador, Gabon, Indonesia and Venezuela.

Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky told reporters, "All the Austrians and the foreign hostages who live in Austria will be released.

"The 11 oil ministers and some of their staff will be taken with the terrorists at 7 a.m. to the airport and at 8 a.m. 1 a.m. CST the DC9 will take off.

"Under the agreement the hostages will be released when they arrive at their destination."

Kreisky said Algeria had offered to accept the plane but the terrorists would decide on the destination when they are airborne.

Kreisky said the Vienna embassies of the OPEC nations had accepted the agreement.

There was speculation that one of the terrorists was Carlos Sannchez Martinez, a Moscow-trained Venezuelan charged with killing two police officers in Paris. English police who took part in the manhunt for him found two bombs in his London apartment but did not catch him.

Yule mail rush doesn't dampen their holiday cheer

by DANN GIRE

A sign hanging in the back room sums it up.

"Hang in there, baby!"

This is the unofficial motto of postal employes, hustling and bustling to meet the increased delivery demands for Christmas and holiday mail.

Between Nov. 15 and Christmas last year, 15 to 16 million pieces of mail passed through the post office in Arlington Heights alone. Officials expect this year's volume to at least equal it.

WITH ONLY 340 employes to service more than 140,000 residents, 12-hour days are common for mail carriers, clerks and handlers.

Employes report to work at 4 a.m., two hours earlier than usual; time off is wishful thinking after Dec. 1.

The front desk is swarming with people, presents and packages. The reception desk is flooded with up to 500 telephone calls per day.

With more hours, packages, pressures and responsibilities, how are the postal people holding up the week before Christmas?

"Just beautiful," Postmaster Donald Swanson said.

"WE HAVE THE most fantastic work force that anybody's ever seen," he said. "Every employe is involved. When that mail comes in, everyone from the top on down to the newest employe goes to work. It's an entire team effort.

"When we leave here before Christmas, there won't be a single piece of mail left to send" he said.

To accomplish that, this is the week of helter skelter. There is little standing room inside the post office. To stand in one place means to risk being run into by carts, carriers or mail bags filled with thoughts of Christmas cheer.

People move quickly and quietly, keeping a watchful eye on the constant influx of mail. Although the atmosphere is relaxed, talk is limited to little more than greetings, questions and answers.

Connie Krashoc, a 3½-year veteran carrier, said the worst part of Christmas delivery is the weather, although she does see more of her "customers."

"PEOPLE FEEL sorry for you, being out in the weather," she said. "A lot more people ask me inside for a cup of hot chocolate."

Kim Dettman, called by Swanson "the best carrier that ever walked a route," summed up his thoughts on Christmas with "you don't sleep much."

"I don't like the weather, and you work extra hours, but you also get paid extra, too," he said.

ON THE POSTAL force since 1961, Juan Quintanilla said he could not see any difference between Christmas and other times of the year.

"You put out a bit more and work a little longer, but there's no problem," he said. "It's all about the same."

Perhaps the most affected member of the carrier staff is Mike Blaker who admits the Christmas season is a turn-on for him.

"You can't help but get in the mood for Christmas, yourself," Blaker said, eyes aglow.

Beaming with Christmas spirit, Blaker said the people are more friendly, "and you enjoy seeing everyone and giving them cards and letters."

AND AS FOR the longer hours and heavier mail sacks . . . he didn't mention them.

"It's just a great time of year," he said.

Postmaster Swanson said in spite of the heavier workload, employes are in good spirits.

"They maintain their cheerfulness, interest and concern for helping their customers," Swanson said. "They're involved in making Christmas good for other people."

William Barton, president of the Arlington Heights National Assn. of Letter Carriers, called the staff "extremely dedicated."

"FROM PERSONAL experience I can tell you our employes go out of their way for people," he said.

In addition to regular route delivery, postal employes must also tackle Christmas stamp sales, mailing insurance, registered and box mail, special delivery, parcel post and information for the public.

With all this, what possibly could motivate postal employes to enjoy the Christmas season?

"It's simple," said Swanson. "We're the real Santa Claus."

POSTAL CLERKS, Santas of sorts, can make the difference between a smooth flow of mail and a dangerous backlog. Officials have predicted all mail will be on time.

Trustees by district?

Representation vote proposed

Arlington Heights Village Pres. James T. Ryan's proposal to have the village's government changed from at-large to district representation is receiving little support from village trustees.

At a special meeting tonight, Ryan is expected to propose a referendum be held "as soon as possible" to allow village residents to decide the issue proposed by Ryan during his campaign last spring. But even that suggestion has been labeled costly and unnecessary by some trustees.

"It should be left up to the voters to petition for such a referendum. If the voters want it let them bring it up," said Trustee Richard Durava.

Trustee Richard H. Miller also sees no need for a referendum, which he termed "a costly way to get a sampling of public opinion."

"FROM THE PEOPLE I've talked to, I haven't got the feeling there's a groundswell of opinion that we should go to geographical representation," Miller said. "If there is no problem with the way we're doing things right now, I see no reason to go to referendum."

Both Miller and Durava favor retaining the present at-large form of government. So does Trustee Frank Palmatier, who says he has "come around to the view that we ought to hold a referendum and let the voters decide."

Palmatier suggested the referendum be conducted Feb. 28 when a library referendum is scheduled. "That would give us time to make necessary plans and arrangements." he said. "I don't know how the library people would feel about it. A larger turnout might be attracted."

If the village's form of government were changed to a district form, Palmatier favors following state statutes and having all eight representatives elected at the next election in 1977. Ryan favors using the village's home-rule powers and allowing trustees elected in April 1975 to finish their four-year terms, therefore only electing four by district in 1977 and electing all eight by district in 1979.

TRUSTEE David Griffin also sees Ryan's proposal as unnecessary. "You don't go and make a change just for the sake of change."

Griffin also believes residents living north of Rand Road would lose the most if the at-large system is replaced.

"With the aldermanic form of government I feel people up my way will lose substantially because north of Rand Road is where there are the largest areas of undeveloped land," Griffin said. "Trustees from other districts wouldn't be subjected to pressure from people in my area if apartment complexes were proposed for those areas.

"The aldermanic form of government also has the tendency to make people go to aldermen and then the administration with their problems. It goes back to the old favoritism type of government. The administration should serve all the people as it is set up now and people should go to the administration first with their problems," Griffin said.

The special meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

C&NW station hit; cops look for thieves

Arlington Heights police Sunday were investigating two burglaries during the weekend including a break-in at the Chicago and North Western Ry. station.

A police officer, while on patrol about 7:50 p.m. Saturday, saw an open window in the downtown train station. Burglars had pried open the cash drawers to the office and broke glass and a wall clock, police said.

The amount of cash taken was not immediately known, police reported.

In the other burglary, a van and various items were stolen from Swift Carpeting, 804 W. Northwest Hwy. Also stolen were a 12-inch television set, a pocket calculator, an 8-track stereo set and about $200 cash, police were told.

There were no signs of forced entry, police said.

Two hurt in fire at Maryville site

Two Des Plaines firefighters were injured Saturday when a ladder fell on them while fighting a fire that extensively damaged a turn-of-the-century building at Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Rd. Deputy Fire Chief David Clark was treated, then released at Holy Family Hospital, and Firefighter Jim Heavey was admitted to the hospital overnight for observation. The fire, which erupted about 4:40 p.m., gutted the garage and storage area of the shop-class building. John Clancy, Maryville maintenance supervisor, estimated the building was constructed near the start of this century. He added they were able to drive a Maryville bus away from the flames. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

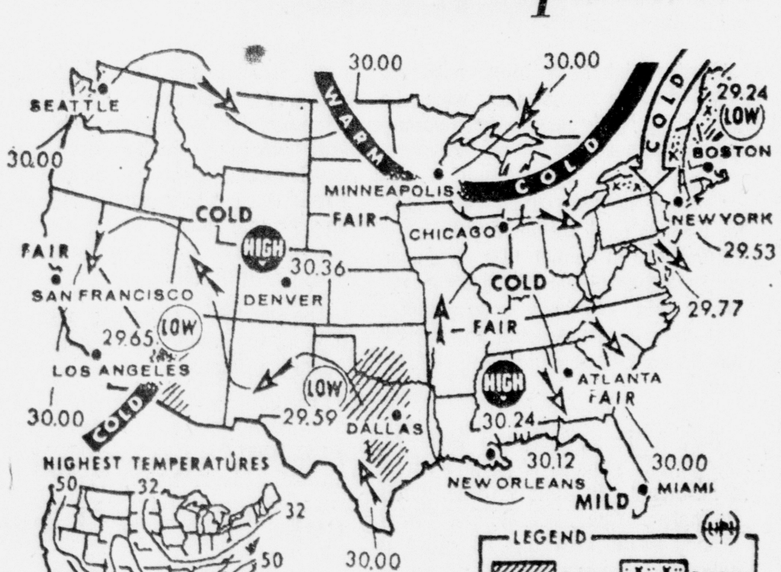
Airport noise big problem

Elk Grove Village residents believe airport noise is the worst environmental problem in their community, according to a health survey conducted in the village. Forty per cent of the 250 residents questioned listed aircraft noise as the most annoying. Other noise problems listed by residents were motorcycles, animals, people and factories. On the question of air quality in the village, 73.6 per cent said air in the village was clean. The survey also showed that the village's worst litter is in shopping centers.

Police search for murderer

Chicago police Sunday were searching for two robbers who killed a woman and seriously wounded two coworkers, including an Arlington Heights woman, Saturday by slashing their throats during a furniture store invasion. Marilyn Blazek, 29, of Arlington Heights, remained in serious condition Sunday in the intensive care unit of Northwestern Memorial Hospital. A fellow employe, Ruth Goodman, 45, of Chicago, was pronounced dead on arrival at Henrotin Hospital. The other employe, Robert Zarbin, 49, of Wilmette, was listed in serious condition at Henrotin Hospital. They worked at Mutual Buyers Club Inc.

Winter in with a squeak...



AROUND THE NATION: Rain is forecast for western Arizona and from northern Texas into Oklahoma. Snow flurries are likely over northern New York and northern New England.

AROUND THE STATE: Mostly sunny; highs 30 north, 37-45 south. Tonight mostly cloudy; lows 18-25.

SATELLITE PHOTO taken at noon Sunday shows overcast to broken low clouds covering the central and southern Appalachians. Overcast layered clouds are over the Southwest becoming broken throughout the Rockies and scattered over the Pacific Northwest. Another area of layered clouds hugs the New England Coast. High thin clouds are streaked from Baja to the southern Plaines. Snow cover is visible in northern New England, the Great Lakes and the northern Plains are well as high elevation areas of the West.

United workers ratify contract; return to work

by United Press International

WASHINGTON — Striking United Airlines machinists voted overwhelmingly Sunday to ratify a new contract and end their two-week strike which had threatened the holiday homecomings of hundreds of thousands of Americans.

John Peter Paul, transportation vice president of the International Assn. of Machinists, announced late Sunday evening almost 18,000 striking IAM members had voted to approve by more than 70 per cent a new contract with United.

Paul urged the machinists to return to work as soon as possible starting with the Sunday midnight shift.

Without United operating and just three days remaining before Christmas, Americans struggled with crowded airlines, Amtrak trains and buses Sunday to get to their holiday destinations. The normal jamup turned to near panic because of the labor disputes which grounded United and National Airlines, a major carrier to Florida cities.

A United spokesman said, even with a ratification vote Sunday, the nation's biggest airline probably would not be able to resume full service before Christmas Eve.

He said, with an end to the strike, United expects to have 36 per cent of its planes — or 558 flights — in the air Monday. The total would climb to 80 per cent, or 1,224 flights, on Tuesday and to 100 per cent on Wednesday.

The Civil Aeronautics Board said other airlines will be allowed to keep flying some of United's routes through Tuesday under emergency permits issued to help ease the holiday travel crunch.

About 16,500 ground personnel struck United Dec. 6. The airline, which normally carries 90,000 passengers a day, was forced to stop all service for some of the busiest days of the holiday season.

Terms of the settlement between United and IAM negotiators reached in Washington Friday after an all-night session with federal mediators, remained secret pending ratification.

Northeast hit by heavy snowfall

by United Press International

A full-scale winter storm on the last day of autumn Sunday smacked the Northeast with the heavies snowfall of the season — up to 15 inches in New Hampshire. New Englanders braced for more snow.

Heavy snow warnings were in effect for several states, and travelers advisories were issued up and down the East Coast in conditions ranging from snow, to sleet, to rain.

The storm virtually assured New Englanders of a white Christmas and left them with lots of shoveling.

Six to 16 inches of snow blanketed southern New Hampshire while the northern part of the state reported four to six inches. Ten inches fell at Boston, forcing the closing of Logan International Airport in the face of a pre-Christmas holiday travel jam. Six-to 12-inch snowfalls were reported across upstate New York and 13 inches fell in Augusta and Caribou, Maine. The snow dimished during the day as temperatures warmed from near zero-degree readings, but the snow was expected to increase again Sunday night.

GALE WARNINGS went up for coastal sections, particularly in Maine, where driving was the most hazardous. Ocean tides, already high because of astronomical conditions, threatened to produce flooding in low-lying areas.

Officials in upstate New York reported slippery driving, but little traffic.

"Everyone stayed home," said a sergeant at the State Police headquarters in Batavia, N.Y. Most roads, however, were open.

One weather-related fatality occurred Saturday in Windsor, N.Y. A 10-year-old girl was killed and her 12-year-old sister was seriously injured when they were struck by a car while sledding near their home.

The storm was spawned by an eastward rush of cold air which left behind a foot of snow in northeastern Ohio Saturday. The storm front brought snow to the mountains of Virginia, western Maryland and southeastern Kentucky, making travel conditions hazardous.

No natural gas shortage this winter: officials

There is enough natural gas on hand in Chicago to meet all customer demands this winter no matter how cold the weather gets, gas company officials report.

A record amount of gas was delivered to Chicago, the northern suburbs and other parts of the Midwest last week, said a spokesman for the Peoples Gas Co., supplier of two-thirds of the gas used in Illinois.

Northern Illinois Gas Co., gas supplier to the Northwest suburbs, also reports there should be no shortage this winter for homeowners and businessmen to worry about.

'We've been saying all along that we expect to be able to meet all of our customer demands," the NI Gas spokesman said. But there is still a need to conserve gas, he added.

"We've got to be looking at the question of long-term gas supply, not just short-lived fluctuations."

Underground storage capacity and a supplemental natural gas production plant are responsible for NI Gas' good position, he said.

The use of gas was at an all-time high last Wednesday and Thursday when Chicago area temperatures dropped to zero.

Peoples Gas delivered a new high of 1.895 billion cubic feet of its customers Wednesday, topping a previous high of 1.844 billion feet recorded Feb. 10 of this year.

A HOSTAGE looks out window of OPEC headquarters after five armed terrorists seized the building.

hand grenades in the OPEC conference room and would explode them if police tried to storm the building. They also threatened to kill a hostage if their demands were not read on Austrian Radio.

In their rambling and disjointed French-language statement they called themselves "the Arm of the Arab revolution." They denounced Iran for selling oil to Israel, Egypt for its Sinai agreement which they demanded be annulled, said American "imperialism" is in an alliance with reactionary Arab circles to promote Zionism and said they wanted to "liberate" Saudi Arabia.

They made no specific demands for release of their hotages. "One is not prepared to negotiate," the statement said.

AUSTRIAN CHANCELLOR Bruno Kreisky, who flew back to Vienna from a Christmas vacation in the Alps, said, "The situation is complicated as so many countries are involved. And OPEC itself cannot act as their top representatives are among the hostages.

"The negotiations will be hard. We will do everything to save human lives. There are too many dead already. The demands of the terrorists must be considered very seriously."

Austrian police said the OPEC ministers held by the terrorists were Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani of Saudi Arabia, Belaid Abdesselam of Algeria, Jaime Duenas Villavicencio of Ecuador, Edouard Alexis M'Bouy-Boutzit of Gabon, Lt. Gen. Ibnu Sutowo of Indonesia, Jamshid Amouzegar of Iran, Tayeh Abdul Karim of Iraq, Abdul Mutalib Al Kazimi of Kuwait, Ezzedin Mabruk of Libya, Mofia Tonjo Akobo of Nigeria, and Valentin Hernandez-Acosta of Venezuela.

ONLY THE MINISTERS of the United Arab Emirates and Qatar who had left the meeting Saturday were absent. The other hostages were members of the staff of the 11 ministers and OPEC employes.

The Austrian government called on the terrorists Sunday night to release the Austrian hostages. It said the foreign hostages would have to declare in writing their willingness to be flown out in compliance with the terrorists' demand.

The terrorists asked that the Libyan ambassador to Austria, Ali Mahmoud Al-Ghadamsi, act as a negotiator. The Austrian government asked that he return from Prague, where he was visiting.

Riad Assawi, the Iraqi charge d'affaires, acted as an intermediary in the negotiations. He took the terrorists some sandwiches but they refused them because they were pork, which is repugnant to Moslems.

"The terrorists appear capable of anything," he said. "But the hostages are in good shape. None was tied up."

A POLICE sharpshooter keeps an eye on the headquarters building of OPEC in Vienna. The terrorists are believed to be Palestinians. Two persons were killed in the takeover.

A WOUNDED terrorist is carried on a stretcher from the OPEC headquarters building. He was wounded in the initial shooting when a small band of terrorists shot their way into the building just before the oil ministers were to hold what was to be a routine year-end meeting.

Add OPEC terrorist attack to the long list of sieges

By United Press International

The street in front of the headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Vienna was nearly deserted on this cold pre-Christmas Sunday.

Only a few reporters waited for news of what was expected to be a routine year-end OPEC meeting taking place inside.

Suddenly gunshots rang out. Then there was silence.

An Austrian police car was met by a hail of bullets. Frantic people began rushing out.

Terrorists had struck again.

The terrorist raid was just the latest in a wave of polically motivated hostage sieges across Western Europe.

..This month alone, Irish Republican Army gunmen invaded a London apartment and South Moluccan extremists hijacked a crowded train in the Dutch countryside and stormed the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam in twin attacks that took four lives.

In early October, provisional IRA gunmen kidnaped a Dutch businessman in northern Ireland and held him for more than a month. In September, three West Indian bandits seized seven hostages in a London restaurant.

In all five of the earlier sieges, authorities used the same tactics to wear down the resistance of the terrorists: adamant refusal to bow to their demands coupled with a willingness to wait and talk.

In all cases, the strategy worked and the gunmen ultimately gave up and freed their captives.

The first band of South Moluccan extremists hijacked a two-passenger train Dec. 2 in the Dutch countryside about 75 miles north of Amsterdam, taking dozens of hostagss and murdering three of them.

A second gang stormed the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam two days later and seized more hostages. One man died from injuries he received trying to jump out a window to safety.

Both groups were demanding independence for their Spice Islands homeland from Indonesia — a former Dutch colony.

The train bandits surrendered after 12 days and released 23 hostages and the consulate gunmen released their 25 hostages Friday, after a 15-day ordeal.

While the Dutch affair was going on, four IRA gunmen fleeing police burst into a London apartment Dec. 6 and held a middle-aged couple captive for six days before surrendering to police Dec. 12.

The previous month, two provisional IRA gunmen kidnapped Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema in Northern Ireland. They were traced to a farmhouse, where they held out for 18 days before freeing their hostage and surrendering to police.

Christians, Moslems clash near Beirut

Feuding Christian and Moslem gunmen clashed in battle Sunday around Zahleh, east of Beirut, and Lebanese army positions in the area came under fire. Scattered fighting erupted around Beirut and in Tripoli amid fears a political assassination could trigger renewed all-out civil war. Armed bands of rival militiamen roamed the near-deserted streets of Beirut and the radio warned citizens their lives could be in danger if they went outdoors. Total casualties since the civil war began in April topped 5,700 killed and 12,000 wounded.

Israel's Allon on mystery mission

Pressed to reveal the purpose of Allon's trip, a Jerusalem source said, "We're keeping it mysterious."

Iceland volcano continues to erupt

The Leirhnukur volcano in northern Iceland continued to erupt Sunday and geologists expressed concern about the increase of small earthquakes in the area which could signal major volcanic activity. The volcano, located about two miles from the site of a thermal electric power plant under construction at the town of Krafl, erupted Saturday morning. There were no injuries. The lava flow went in the opposite direction from the town and the plant site was not in danger.

'Pill' firms asked to meet with FDA

Manufacturers of sequential-type birth control pills have been asked to meet this week with Food and Drug Administration officials, who are considering evidence the pills may be less safe than other oral contraceptives, an FDA spokesman said Sunday. Some FDA people reportedly think the three brands of sequential pills — Oracon, Ortho-Novum SQ and Norquen — should be banned. But an advisory committee of obstetricians and gynecologists, after hearing testimony about a University of Colorado study, last week stopped short of recommending a halt in sales, the FDA spokesman said.

Congressional economists report

Economic recovery likely to slow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's economic recovery is likely to slow to a trickle in 1976, keeping unemployment close to its current high level through 1977, Congress' staff economists said Sunday.

In a report with a gloomy economic outlook, the staff of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee predicted:

• This fall's 13-per-cent rise in national output, the steepest climb in 25 years, will sputter late next year. Output will remain sluggish through 1977. The gross national product will rise by 6.6 per cent in 1976 and only 3.8 per cent in 1977.

• Unemployment, which fell to 8.3 per cent last month after a high of 9.2 in May will decline only to just below 8 per cent by the middle of 1976 and stay from 7.5 to 8 per cent through 1977.

• The rate of inflation will continue a slow decline, with the cost of living rising 6 to 7 per cent for the next two years. Consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 8.4 per cent in November and the increase is expected to average 9.2 per cent for 1975.

The staff said an additional tax reduction of 10 per cent starting next October — atop the extension of 1975's tax cut just passed by Congress — may be necessary to keep the recovery going and keep unemployment below 8 per cent in 1977.

President Ford will sign the compromise $18 billion tax cut bill Monday. The tax legislation, passed before Congress adjourned Friday for the holidays, would extend the anti-recession tax reduction for six months. Ford already has said he will recommend to Congress a $28 billion cut for the next fiscal year with a matching $28 billion slash in federal spending.

In other economic news Sunday:

• Life insurance executives are being told to expect economic turbulence and social disruption during the next 20 years as the industrial era and its work ethic give ground to a slacker, "somewhat different culture." A report from the industry's Trend Analysis Program says one indication of this is an increasing "no-risk" attitude, "with everyone wanting assurance of what's coming to him or her, and someone to . . . hold responsible if things go wrong.

• The nation's coal companies may have a manpower shortage in 1976, when an estimated 5,000 miners are lured into retirement by a fat pension benefit increase beginning Jan. 1. The United Mine Workers union estimates about 15,000 miners will be eligible for retirement under the new graduated benefits ranging up to $510 a month, compared to the current flat rate of $200 a month.

Rebels to surrender in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Mutinous air force officers holding an air base and Buenos Aires metropolitan airport to back demands for the ouster of President Isabel Peron have agreed to surrender terms, an air force spokesman announced Sunday.

Details of the agreement were not immediately known, the spokesman said.

Archbishop Adolfo Tortolo, acting as mediator, brought a counter-proposal on the surrender terms to the air force headquarters Sunday afternoon, after 24 hours of negotiation.

The air force accepted this proposal, the spokesman said.

The rebel air force officers seized the Moron Air Base and the transport command at the metropolitan airport on Thursday.

President Peron had issued a statement early Sunday saying the rebellion had ended peacefully.

The presidential communique said the Moron base "responds to its rightful commanders. This means that the weapons of our soldiers are no longer pointed at the breasts of their brothers."

But a rebel spokesman at Moron countered that "there has not been any kind of surrender, we have not accepted any terms."

Air force sources termed the presidential statement "premature" and said it had hurt negotiations with the rebels.

Loyalist jet aircraft bombed and strafed the rebel-held Moron base, 25 miles outside the capital, for two hours Satudday. No one was wounded in the attack.

Air Force Commander Brig. Gen. Orlando Agosti called air force commanders from all other bases to an urgent meeting Sunday.

Mrs. Peron remained at her Olivos residence.

The object of the four-day revolt was the overthrow of Mrs. Peron, who the rebels charge is incapable of coping with Argentina's mounting economic and political problems.

The rebels unsuccessfully appealed to the army and navy to join their mutiny citing "the grave situation in the country aggravated by a wave of crimes and systematic robbery."

The rebels want army commander Jorge R. Videla to take over the presidency and establish a military regime.

Videla turned them down but has applied pressure on the government for a political solution to the crisis including Mrs. Peron's resignation.

Angola sources hit U.S. decision

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — The U.S. Senate decision to cut off covert military aid to Angola has caused bitterness and perplexity among two pro-Western nationalist movements, Angolan liberation sources said Sunday.

U.S. military aid and moral support is vital to counter the growing Russian influence with the third Angolan group — the Marxist Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA), the sources said.

"The United States has been feeding us," one source said, "but suddenly decided to yank the bottle away and won't even call the doctor. We can understand the pressures of politics, but sometimes the United States tries to act as God."

The Senate Friday voted to cut off military aid totaling at least $25 million to the two pro-western groups — the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA) and the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA).

Liberation sources here said UNITA and FNLA were receiving help from West European nations but that without American backing the Angolan civil war could be prolonged by several years.

They expressed confidence, however, that the coalition government of UNITA and FNLA would eventually score a military victory.

Over the last few months, Washington had channeled $25 million to the two movements through Zaire.

President Ford said the Senate decision would have "the gravest consequences on the long term position of the United States and for international order in general."

Jonas Savimbi, the UNITA leader, said the United States must not be "indifferent" to the situation in Angola. He deplored Washington's changing position and urged Ford to continue supplying weapons.

AN ALL NEW Chevrolet as depicted in a "Car Biz" magazine sketch, is among the smaller cars on automakers' drawing boards. Lighter cars will meet strict federal standards.

A significant increase in new car sales during 1976 is forecast by several Northwest suburban dealers. Although the smaller, economy cars are top sellers at three dealerships, two sales managers report sizable sales of full-size autos.

The recent General Motors Corp. forecast for a 20 per cent boost in annual sales during the coming year is seconded by Vincent Piccoli, sales manager at Ladendorf Motors Inc., an Oldsmobile dealership in Des Plaines. "If GM says they're going to increase 20 per cent, who am I to argue?" Piccoli said.

Piccoli figures an increasing number of suburban motorists will shop for a car in the near future. A good barometer is the number of older cars on the road, he said.

SALES ARE generally slow during December, the sales manager said. "You can't fight Santa Claus and we have a big ticket item," Piccoli said. He predicts sales will increase in early 1976. Piccoli said a number of area residents are trading small cars for "family sized cars. The improved economy of the big cars takes some of the sting out," he said. "We're looking at 1976 with great anticipation."

Full size cars are big sellers at the Fireside Chrysler Plymouth dealership, Schaumburg, said Joe DuFore, general manager. "We sell about five of those compared to one smaller car," DuFore said. "I don't think people are concerned about gas mileage."

New car sales should gain momentum in early 1976 as the automakers launch new promotions, DuFore said. "We recently took on a Mazda franchise," he said, adding that he cannot predict the Mazda market.

"AFTER THE holidays I think it's going to pick up," said Wally Shepherd, sales manager at Fallon Ford, Inc. in Arlington Heights. Although December sales are "pretty slow," sales of the Pinto are "really going," he said. "Many people are looking for the stripped automobile in the Pinto and Mustang. Used car values will drop until the first of the year, "and then they'll come up again," he said.

Dealers may have to wait until early February for seasonal sales increases, said Larry Mattson, general manager of Roselle AMC-Jeep, Inc., Schaumburg. Although he hopes for hefty sales, "the economy is too flip-floppy to make a prediction," Mattson said. Ninety per cent of Mattson's customers look for economy first, making Pacer and Gremlin models the top sellers.

"We project we'll be up about 30 per cent next year," said Jim Matz, general sales manager at Porsche Audi at O'Hare, Inc., Elk Grove Village. The forecast includes new and used car sales. Matz said economy is the primary concern for his customers although the average "out the door" price is $16,000. "That's the reason why many people buy this car," he said. "They want a car that's reasonably good on gas."

Nation's automakers plan for end of the decade

by EDWARD S. LECHTZIN

DETROIT (UPI) — The next four years may sound like one long commercial for Detroit's "all new and better-than-ever automobiles.

Unlike some past efforts to meet foreign competition, the changes due from Detroit by the end of the decade could be permanent. Higher prices for just about everything make it unlikely that the small cars Detroit is working on will gradually add inches and pounds to their waistlines.

The U.S. auto industry has been pushed into a multibillion dollar program by more fuel-efficient small imports, higher gasoline prices and threats of fuel economy legislation from Washington.

In the process, Detroit hopes to lose the image as a producer of gas-guzzling, 20-foot behemoths whose design often had no relation to need.

SEVERAL EXAMPLES of what car buyers can expect in the next few years are already on the road — Chevrolet's Chevette, Ford's Granada and Monarch, Chrysler's Volare and Aspen, American Motors' Pacer and Cadillac's Seville.

And foreign automakers won't be sitting still, either. They've got a new foothold on U.S. shores they won't easily give up.

Volkswagen, whose front-wheel drive Rabbit has set the pace for the small car revolution, has an even smaller model in the Polo set for introduction next year. The Renault 5 is a minicar with good fuel economy that could put the French automaker back in the U.S. auto business. And the Fiat 127 due soon will present even more problems for Detroit.

Analysts variously estimate the cost of the U.S. auto industry's total changeover at close to $20 billion with giant General Motors picking up the biggest tab. With its huge resources, GM's programs are the most ambitious.

While it wants to lose its big car image, GM doesn't want to just become a small car power. But its top executives are warning that proposed fuel economy legislation could put every American in a tiny car.

IF THE PROPOSAL to require the industry to achieve an average of 28 miles per gallon by 1985 becomes law, GM contends the largest car the industry will be selling in any volume at all will probably be smaller, lighter and less powerful than today's Chevy Nova.

And only a small percentage of all cars being produced will even be that big, GM contends.

"Perhaps as much as 85 per cent of our production will have to be made up of cars the size of the Chevette and Vega," said Elliott M. Estes, GM's president. He warns that a sudden shift to minicars could cost the industry 3 million sales a year in 1985.

But even with that dire prediction GM Chairman Thomas A. Murphy said that by 1980, smaller cars may account for more than 70 per cent of GM sales. Since GM is "downsizing" all of its cars, that prediction should come to pass.

Instead of cars that average close of 3,900 pounds for today's standard-size sedan, tomorrow's "standard" car will probably be the size of a Granada and will weigh in below 3,000 pounds.

IN THE PROCESS, the designers will be given freedom they haven't had for the past 10 years since Washington began its stiffer safety and emission controls that took most of Detroit's efforts to meet.

And the engineers have been given new tasks to design powerplants that provide better fuel economy, power enough to satisfy American drivers and still meet stricter antipollution standards still on the books for 1978 and beyond.

Those regulations, says Alan G. Loofbourrow, a Chrysler vice president, have actually delayed bringing some new small cars to the American market. He said it delayed by at least one year, until 1978, the introduction of a new U.S.-built version of a French minicar.

As for the "miracle" engine that will do all that right now, there just isn't any such animal yet, the automakers say. And, as long as clean air standards work against better fuel economy, it may never come to pass, they argue.

"Holding our industry to impossible tasks until the last moment is expensive and wasteful," Ford Chairman Henry Ford II said recently.

"The technology required to meet statutory emission standards for 1978 models is still not available," Ford said. "And there is no possibility of meeting these standards and also reaching the President's goal of a 40 per cent fuel economy improvement by 1980."

YET, AUTOMAKERS continue to work on alternative powerplants in anticipation of a change in the clean air laws they have been lobbying against.

A combination of the catalytic muffler and production of smaller cars helped push the fuel economy of the 1976-model fleet of cars nearly 27 per cent higher than two years earlier.

One breakthrough for a U.S. automaker — a diesel engine for cars — is a likelihood from GM, but only if the emission standards are relaxed. Mercedes-Benz of Germany has been selling diesels for years and Peugeot of France joined the club last year. Both report they can't get enough diesels into this country to meet the demand.

GM's Oldsmobile Division could have an engine ready for 1978 by reworking the standard 350-cubic inch V8 engine.

Until Detroit can come up with a revolutionary new powerplant, though, it's going to achieve much of its fuel economy gains by simply shifting smaller engines into its cars and use electronics to help the engine burn the gasoline. Instead of the monster engines designed in the muscle car era, when gas was cheap, look for smaller V8s, V6s and four-cylinder jobs.

THERE'S BEEN A lot of soul-searching in the executive suites at Detroit's auto companies since the Arab oil embargo triggered a two-year slump — the deepest and longest since the depression.

Top executives admit hindsight is great. "Our forecasts in 1970 told us that what happened to the sales mix in 1975 would not happen until 1980," said R. William McNealy, American Motors vice chairman and next in line for the top spot at AMC.

"The critics may be having a field day, but I don't believe their decisions would have been different from ours, based on the data then available," McNealy said. "No market revolution seemed likely, let alone inevitable, five years ago."

McNealy also cautions that while Detroit is embarked on a small car binge, all Americans won't be driving cars that weigh less than 2,000 pounds by 1980. What happened in Tokyo, Rome and Paris, he says, need not happen in Chicago, Los Angeles and Dallas.

Puts an end to 'bitter' rivalry

Customs, DEA patch up feud

WASHINGTON (UPI—The Drug Enforcement Administration and the Customs Service last week officially patched up a 2-year-old feud without telling the world how bitterly they fought each other in trying to catch drug smugglers.

But their joint "Memorandum of Understanding" reveals the tactics they used against each other in a war that erupted when the DEA was created July 1, 1973.

Things got so bad that both agencies, it was learned, acted under a White House threat that President Ford would step in if the feud were not settled by the end of the year.

DEA TOOK OVER domestic drug enforcement duties from the former Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and the intelligence-gathering activities of the Customs Service, leaving older customs — created March 3, 1927 — only its border-watching assignment.

This division of duties is spelled out in the memorandum signed by Acting DEA Administrator Henry S. Dogin and also by Customs Commissioner Vernon D. Acree, although customs officially opposed the guidelines.

Customs is within the Treasury Dept., and it was learned Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told the White House and the Justice Dept., which administers DEA, that drug enforcement could be strengthened if customs continued its investigative role.

The issues were spelled out in a "White Paper" by the White House Domestic Counsel last September after an investigation into the feud and the damage it did to U.S. drug enforcement.

BUT THAT White Paper did not disclose tactics which last week's memorandum suggested caused bitter rivalries over the roles DEA and customs should assume. For example, the memorandum disclosed the agencies:

• Tried to "buy" each other's informants:

"Neither Customs nor DEA will discourage potential sources of information from working for the other agency. The promising of rewards to informants for intelligence shall not be competitively used to . . . encourage the course of information to 'agency shop.' "

• Withheld investigative intelligence from each other:

"Customs will expeditiously furnish all drug-related information to DEA. DEA will expeditiously furnish drug-smuggling intelligence to customs."

"DEA and Customs will refrain from offering or lending support to any derogatory remarks regarding the other agency. When dealing with other law enforcement agencies, federal, state and local officials should not be misled as to DEA and customs respective responsibilities."

• One-upped each other in giving public information:

"On drug-related joint enforcement actions, no press releases will be made by customs or DEA without the concurrence of each other."

• Feuded over possession of confiscated evidence and contraband:

"Each time any drugs are discovered by customs they will be seized and the nearest DEA office will be immediately notified. . . ."

Mount Prospect engineer

Hip boots part of Natalie's job

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Business Letters Natalie Karney receives are often addressed "Dear sir." The guys in the office call her "Nat" for short, and she is frequently stared at during business meetings or professional conferences.

But she doesn't let all that bother her.

She just puts on her hip boots and hard hat, and continues her work as deputy engineer for the Village of Mount Prospect.

The job during the past four years has presented Ms. Karney with some unique challenges and, at times, has placed her in some humorous situations because she works in what traditionally has been a male-dominated profession.

THERE ARE TIMES when she dresses in jeans and a red hard hat and oversees a sewer project. Motorists abruptly stop on the street to make a "double take" she said.

Ms. Karney is frequently greeted with expressions of surprise from residents whose homes she visits to offer advice on flooding problems.

There have been other times when men in her profession watch her "every move" to see if she really knows what she is doing. And she does.

HER DAILY AGENDA includes surveying and designing plans for water, sewer and street projects; handling homeowners' complaints; supervising fieldwork, preparing cost estimates on projects, and reviewing subdivision plans.

When she has the time, she conducts studies on flood and sewer system relief in an effort to find solutions to problems plaguing the village.

"I really enjoy my work. I enjoy working with ideas and with people; helping them with the problems they are having," she said. "It's a good feeling to see a problem, design a soolution and then see it constructed."

There's always something to keep her busy in a village that covers 11 square miles and includes 46,000 people, Ms. Karney said.

PROJECTS SHE has spearheaded since 1971, when she was hired by the village, include the recycling center, the Na-Wa-Ta Street sewer project and an effort to educate residents on how they can reduce flooding of their homes and properties.

She talks about pipes, sewer connections and land grade like it is second nature to her.

Ms. Karney says she has not received any resistance or harassment from others in the business.

"Everyone has a very professional attitude. I believe I was hired on the basis of my qualifications and not because I'm a woman. I think others eralize that," she said.

THERE IS A " mutual, professional respect" between herself and her male counterparts, she said, "and I think being a woman and working in this capacity has been more of an advantage than a hindrance.

"You stand out at conferences, so a lot of people come up to you and start talking. They want to know why you got into the business, so I tell them, and then I learn more about what they are doing," she said.

An interest in mathematics and design is what led Ms. Karney, a Hoffman Estates resident, to study civil engineering at the University of Detroit.

She and her husband, an electrical engineer, continue their common interests outside of the office by serving on the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission and Environmental Control Board respectively.

"I WAS ALWAYS the only female in engineering classes not only in college, but in high school too. I took some ribbing, but they finally came to realize that I was serious about my work," she said.

Ms. Karney said fewer people joke about her job now than when she first started. She is getting fewer "stares" and fewer surprised responses from people when they find out she's an engineer.

"I think it's the sign of the times. Women are moving into all fields and being accepted as professional equals.

"I don't think it matters whether you are a man or a woman. As long as you are good at whatever you do," she said. "And I try to be."

Village woman hurt in robbery

Chicago police Sunday were searching for two robbers who killed a woman Saturday and seriously wounded two of her coworkers, including an Arlington Heights woman, by slashing their throats during a furniture store invasion.

Marilyn Blazek, 29, of Arlington Heights, remained in serious condition Sunday in the intensive-care unit of Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

A fellow employe, Ruth Goodman, 45, of Chicago, was pronounced dead on arrival at Henrotin Hospital. The other employe, Robert Zarbin, 49, of Wilmette, was listed in serious condition at Henrotin Hospital.

Police said the attack occurred at Mutual Buyers Club Inc., 225 W. Hubbard St., about 3:30 p.m. The robbers netted $90 from the robbery, police reported.

The men entered the store and talked to Zarbin about catalogs, police said. Zarbin told police the men demanded his cash and that he emptied his pockets, but resisted when the men attempted to tie him up. When he scuffled with the men, one of them stabbed Zarbin in the neck, he told police.

Zarbin was taken to the office where they ordered the women to empty their purses, bound them and slit their throats, police said. After the attackers left the store, Zarbin called authorities, police said.

No Garbage Service Christmas Day

Christmas is a holiday for our men, one of 6 during the year on which, per our contract, no garbage service is provided and no credit given.

As most residents know, these 6 holiday-service omissions are equalized among our 3 routes, so that no route receives more than 2 during the normal year. In addition, we adjust our schedule so that the Christmas service omission, with its mass of discarded wrappings, will not occur on the same route in successive years.

This year, it is Thursday's "turn." Accordingly, the next service for Monday-Thursday routes after Monday, Dec. 22 will be on Monday, Dec. 29.

Under our equalization system, this is the first holiday-service omission for Mon.-Thurs. routes since last Memorial Day.

We appreciate your cooperation.

Odds are lottery can't keep pace

by WANDALYN RICE

Eighteen months ago the Illinois lottery began with enthusiasm from the players and high hopes for a solution for the state's money problems.

Today the enthusiasm, judged on the number of lottery tickets sold, is still on an upward spiral, but the hope for a massive financial windfall for the state has died.

At the end of its first year of operation in August, the lottery had earned $64 million for the state — a large amount in absolute terms, but only 1.5 per cent of the state's budget.

"I never thought a lottery should be proposed on the basis that it would be a panacea for the taxpayers," Ralph Batch, superintendent of the lottery, says. "I think $64 million is substantial."

Since it began with the 50 cent "Lotto" ticket, the lottery has had numerous short-term games — the Super Bowl with $1 tickets and, most recently, the instant lottery with tickets that tell buyers immediately whether they have won.

The instant lottery catapulted the game back into the headlines. "If anything the instant lottery has been too successful," Batch says. "Those who are opposed to lotteries have become apprehensive because it's been so well received."

THE CONTROVERSY over the instant lottery, which has included alarmed statements by psychologists that it may be harmful, surprised Batch. "Our research of instant lotteries in other states convinced us that it was a vehicle for generating money and excitement without controversy. In one week of the instant lottery we were accused of deteriorating all the morals of the state of Illinois," he says.

The instant lottery was the cause of the first "scandal" to touch the lottery, a fact which causes Batch some pain. The problem arose when an employe of a DuPage County claim center gave a $10,000 winner a partial receipt and then tried to have the ticket altered so a relative could collect the prize.

"We are very anxious to avoid a repeat of that case," Batch says. "If the public doesn't have confidence in the lottery nothing else makes any difference."

The problems and controversy that has surrounded the instant lottery will not eliminate it, Batch says. The last tickets for the current game will be sold by about Jan. 1 but other instant lotteries will be scheduled in the future, he said.

"THE INSTANT lottery has a great ability to generate revenue and it also has faster action and is more appealing to some of the people who might otherwise go to the competition — syndicate gambling," he says.

The most important thing about running an ongoing lottery, Batch says, is to keep the public interested once the original novelty wears off. That, he says, is the purpose of the specialized games.

"We have new games on the drawing board all the time," he says. "Sometime in the middle of January we'll start another $1 game that will be not unlike the Grand Slam."

THE ILLINOIS lottery in its first 18 months has grown into the largest in the nation and shows no sign of losing public interest.

"At this point, revenue is ahead of the amount we had made by this time last year," Batch says. "Our percentage of the state budget will be higher this year if the state holds expenditures constant."

The problem with judging the success or failure of a lottery, Batch says, is state legislators tend to increase the amount they plan to spend faster than lotteries can raise money. "In Pennsylvania the revenue for the lottery was dedicated to aiding senior citizens," he says. "But the legislature appropriated more money than the lottery was estimated to bring in, so now they've accused the lottery of being a failure."

11 carriers win in fourth weekly contest

Herald carriers have reached the midway point in their "Holiday Hallelujah Raffle" in which they have opportunities to win trips, prizes and cash.

Eleven carriers won prizes in the fourth weekly drawing conducted Friday. Each carrier who maintains the same number of subscribers on his route each week as on Nov. 21 is eligible for prizes in the regular raffle.

For every new subscriber a carrier turns in each week, he gets one chance in the "grand prize" raffle.

In the regular raffle, winners of a trip to Woodside Ranch in Mauston, Wis., are Tim Hebbard, Des Plaines; Dave Horwath, Palatine, and Pat Leeming and Mark Peterson, both of Arlington Heights.

Savings bonds went to Jeanie Skelton, Mount Prospect, and Mike Yaccino, Des Plaines. Ten dollars in cash was won by Debra Parkhurst and Brad Drexler, both of Palatine.

In the grand prize drawing, Jeff Swindell, Arlington Heights, won a trip to Disney World; Tom Bauer Arlington Heights, won an AM/FM radio cassette player, and Ted Krieble, Palatine, won a Polaroid color camera.

The Holiday raffle continues through Jan. 16.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Painless savings plan

Christmas Club accounts help make holidays happier

by BETTY LEE

Christmas gifts seem to cost a bit more each year and not everyone is prepared for it. The season to be jolly often is hampered by empty wallets and post-holiday bills.

But there's a relatively painless way of saving for a lump sum to spend during Christmas holidays. Most area banks and savings and loans offer Christmas saving plans called Christmas Clubs, which allows a customer to save a nominal amount weekly or biweekly.

Money is accumulated throughout the year, sometimes with interest, and club members receive a check for the amount saved right before the holidays. The money sometimes is a relief for shoppers who want to splurge or buy that extra gift.

Carol Klotz of the Buffalo Grove National Bank says the Christmas club plan is a "painless" way of saving. "None of us stays within our budget around Christmas," she said. "It's a habit-forming thing."

Most banks which offer the Christmas club plan issue coupon books. People tear off a coupon each time a payment is made. Although customers can do the same thing by starting a savings account, the "little book" is what makes the Christmas Club work, Mrs. Klotz said.

The Christmas Club also works because customers are not allowed to withdraw the money, says Vicki Keller of Plum Grove Bank, Rolling Meadows. "People use it," she said. "I think it works because they can't touch it once they put money into it," Ms. Keller said.

People often use the club for other spending besides Christmas gifts said Virginia R. Lemke of Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, Arlington Heights. One neighbor of hers saved a little each week for a purchase for herself. She bought a couch with the money.

The Woodfield Bank in Schaumburg offers a 50-week payment plan. Instead of interest, the bank will pay the last payment, regardless of the denomination paid each week.

Although no interest is paid on Christmas Club accounts at the Bank of Elk Grove, Elk Grove Village, the plan is popular with its customers, says Carol Peterson, bookkeeper.

"It's harder to put money into a savings account than pay each week with a coupon book," she said.

Persons interested in participating in a Christmas Club should shop around because banks offer different services and rates of interest. Here are what a few banks offer:

- First Arlington National Bank, Campbell and Dunton streets, Arlington Heights. Payments may be made in $2, $5, $10 or $20 denominations for 50 weeks, accumulating 5 per cent annual interest.
- Northwest Trust & Savings Bank, 311 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. Biweekly payments of $2, $4, $6, $10 or $20 accumulates 5 per cent interest.
- Buffalo Grove National Bank, 1300 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove. Biweekly payments from $1 to $40 each plus interest.
- Plum Grove Bank, 2701 Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows. Payments in $1, $2, $3, $5, $10 and $20 each week for 50 weeks receives 5 per cent interest only if customer pays the full goal amount.
- Woodfield Bank, Woodfield Mall, Schaumburg. $1 to $20 payments each week for 50 weeks. The bank pays the final payment instead of interest.
- Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates, 1100 N. Roselle Rd. Payments of $2, $4, $5 and $10. No withdrawals, no interest.
- First National Bank of Mount Prospect, Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect. Payments of $1, $2, $3, $4, $5 or $10 weekly with 5 per cent interest.
- Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank, 4 S. Milwaukee Rd., Wheeling. Amount per deposit may be arranged with bank officials and will accumulate a 5¼ per cent interest as long as payments are made on a regular basis.
- Des Plaines National Bank, 678 Lee St., Des Plaines. Same as Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank
- Palatine National Bank, 50 N. Brockway St., Palatine. Payments of $2, $4, $5, $10 and $20 biweekly with no interest.
- Bank of Elk Grove, 100 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village. Payments of $2, $3, $5 and $10 each week for 50 weeks. No interest. A $1 service fee will be charged for withdrawals before the program ends.

Mystery hovers over boat lost in the 'triangle'

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI)—A Coast Guard cutter reached a capsized sailboat in the legendary "Bermuda Triangle" Sunday morning just as the craft disappeared into the depths of the Atlantic, a spokesman said.

The unidentified vessel was under water when the cutter arrived at 4 a.m. and sank within minutes, said Lt. J.G. John Witherspoon.

He said the cutter searched the area for survivors but found none.

The sailboat was spotted Saturday morning 80 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C., by a passing American cargo ship, which notified the Coast Guard.

THE CARGO SHIP Ponce de Leon told the Coast Guard it saw no sign of life and was unable to find the craft's name. A Coast Guard plane dropped a data buoy near the sailboat and a cutter was dispatched to the area.

"They sighted an object about 10 feet under water," Witherspoon said. "They had no idea what it was or what it is. They saw it under water and then it sank completely."

Lt. J.G. Fred Simpson said it was not known if the sailboat had recently capsized or if it was lost at sea this summer during several heavy storms which plagued the area.

He said the Coast Guard had several missing sailboats on file, but none recently.

More than 200 ships and planes have disappeared over the years in the so-called "Bermuda Triangle," a large portion of the Atlantic cornered by Miami, Fla. Norfolk, Va. and Bermuda.

Bay of Pigs vets agree to terms for flag return

MIAMI (UPI) — The Bay of Pigs veterans have agreed to government terms for return of their battle flag from the Kennedy Library at Waltham, Mass., and Sunday began polling the 1,500 survivors and families of the 500 dead for permission to move the flag.

The Bay of Pigs Veterans Association filed suit in U.S. District Court last April, charging that the United States had failed to make good on the pledge of the late Prssident John Kennedy that Communist control over the island republic would be ended.

Kennedy made the pledge at an emotional ceremony in Miami's Orange Bowl on Dec. 28, 1962, after captives from the abortive invasion had been ransomed from the Fidel Castro government. The battle flag was presented to Kennedy at that ceremony.

THE SUIT WAS filed last April by attorney Ellis Rubin of Miami after the late president's brother, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was quoted as favoring a thawing of diplomatic and trade relations with the Castro government.

The Justice Department announced Saturday the flag would be returned providing the association representing veterans of the 2506 Brigade would agree to place the flag on permanent public display; would guarantee that it would be permanently preserved; and could show that a majority of the veterans and survivors want it back.

Two more days and I'll finish Gibbons' "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire"!

The almanac

(by United Press International)

Today is Monday, Dec. 22, the 356th day of 1975 with nine to follow.

The moon approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Thos born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

American composer Deems Taylor was born Dec. 22, 1885.

On this day in history: • In 1885, the Continental Navy fleet was organized, consisting of two frigates, two brigs and three schooners. Sailors were paid $8 a month.

• In 1864, Union Gen. William Sherman sent President Abraham Lincoln this message: "I beg to present you as a Christmas present the city of Savannah."

• In 1944, Gen. Anthony McAuliffe of the American 101st Airborne Division replied with one word when order to surrender by the Nazis, who had his forces trapped. The one word: "Nuts!"

• In 1972, thousands died when a series of earthquakes wrecked the Nicaraguan capital of Managua.

A thought for the day: American statesman Adlai Stevenson said, "The time to stop a revolution is at the beginning, not the end."

The way we see it

Underpass site still needed

Motorists who pass through the west side of Des Plaines on the way to Chicago and points east will continue to have no relief from the endless trains that block major thoroughfares in the city.

Thanks to the repeated inaction of the Des Plaines City Council — and their most recent shelving of a decision on where and when to build a railroad underpass — the lines will continue to form as cars and trucks wait for the inevitable freight trains to cross.

The council, after being bombarded with more than 2,000 signatures from protesting residents, voted to withdraw a recommendation for an underpass on Algonquin Road and the Chicago and North Wetern Ry. outerbelt tracks.

The residents objected to the underpass being built along Algonquin. They cited increased traffic and dangers to school children who use the primarily residential street.

We agree and have previously urged the council to give serious consideration to take the advice of its streets and traffic committee and build the underpass on Oakton Street, which is already a heavily trafficked four-lane highway.

But instead of responding to the residents and reconsidering the committee recommendation, the council tabled consideration, thereby postponing the possibility of constructing an underpass for about six months.

A firm decision was needed so Mayor Herbert H. Behrel could present a council recommendation to the Northwest Municipal Conference, which ranks various projects from municipalities on a priority basis for federal funds. The $3 million project would have been financed with about 70 per cent federal funding.

Although the council's inaction will not kill the project, Behrel said it does bump it from the spring priorities for 1976.

The Des Plaines City Council needs to resolve the underpass question. This is the second time Algonquin Road has been pegged by the council as the best site and the second time protests from residents have forced aldermen to back down.

City officials should once and for all abandon the idea of using Algonquin Road, agree to an Oakton Street location and make every effort to get the urgently needed underpass under construction.

She attacks Alaskan wolf hunt

Fence post
letters to the editor

Last March, when the Alaskan Fish and Game planned a massive wolf hunt in Tanana Flats, there was a public outcry and the hunt never came about. I hope it can happen again, because the wolves need help.

The Alaskan Fish and Game has authorized an aerial wolf hunt encompassing 45,000 square miles worth of game units. In one of these, Number 13, every wolf is slated for slaughter. In 45,000 square miles, there surely must be room for both wolves and men.

The wild wolves are almost gone. They've been reduced to less than one per cent of their original range since white men first came to this land, and that small area is fast shrinking still smaller. How come? It's the same old reasons, actually.

Alaskan hunters claim that the wolves are killing all the "big game" moose. Of course, they don't mention that the herds weren't badly depleted until more people from the lower 48 states moved up to Alaska to work on the pipeline. Nor do they mention that it was a very bad year for calves last year, with many falling sick and dying. (Easy to blame the wolves, as they were the ones who cleaned up the mess.) And, of course, it would never cross the hunter's mind that perhaps they caused the shortage by killing too many moose themselves. It is taken for granted by "sportsmen" that when "big game" reduces its numbers, it was not they, but always the predators who did it.

Then there is the element of fear. Even though there has never been a documented, authenticated case of a healthy wolf attacking man, woman or child in this country, many people still believe those Little Red Riding Hood big bad wolf stories told to them as children. As a result, many people fear wolves, and intense fear often brings hatred, ignorance, intolerance and destruction of the very things we hold dear.

". . . What is man without the beasts? If all the beasts were gone, men would die from a great loneliness of spirit. For whatever happens to the beasts soon happens to man. All things are connected.

"You must teach your children that the ground beneath their feet is the ashes of our grandfathers so that they will respect the land. Tell your children that the earth is rich with the lives of our kin. Teach your children what we have taught our children, that the earth is our mother. Whatever befalls the earth, befalls the sons of the earth. If men spit upon the ground, they spit upon themselves.

"This we know. The earth does not belong to man, man belongs to the earth. This we know. All things are connected, like the blood that unites one family. All things are connected.

"Whatever befalls the earth befalls the sons of the earth. Man did not weave the web of life, he is merely a strand in it. Whatever he does to the web, he does to himself . . ." Chief Seattle, chief of the Sugamish tribe, from a speech delivered in 1854.

It seems sad that the "new kid on the block" has never learned to like or respect his new neighborhood, or to get along with those who lived there.

'Our rights violated,' he says

In response to Patrica M. Hunter's letter of Dec. 3:

Mrs. Hunter, you accused me of being naive on the subject of the Lincoln Green-St. Viator federally subsidized housing project for low and moderate-income persons. In reply, I suggest you read the opinion of Circuit Judge Swygert, now being appealed by the village to the U.S. Supreme Court, reversing a decision upholding the village's refusal to change its zoning to accommodate the project. The opinion states: "The question in this case is whether the Village of Arlington Heights' refusal to rezone a piece of property in order to permit the construction of a housing development for low and moderate income persons violates plaintiff's constitutional rights." Judge Swygert then found the plaintiff's rights had been violated, contrary to findings of the lower court, and completely overlooked the constitutional rights of we homeowners, living near the proposed project, relying on the integrity of the village's zoning ordinance and master plan. I and many of my neighbors aren't being naive when we object to our constitutional rights being overlooked and violated.

Further, Mrs. Hunter, something is wrong when you and your husband, both college graduates with only one child to support, feel you must be subsidized. Again, I don't think we are being naive feeling we have no moral obligation to pay your bills.

Also, Mrs. Hunter, bureaucrat-socialist projects like Lincoln Green benefit only a chosen few like yourself and have been one of the main causes of high government costs, high housing costs, high rents and high interest rates. Is it naive to object to this?

Additionally, Mrs. Hunter, I live among industrious hardworking people, some of whom did not go to college, who feel as I do that we don't have to support those who consider subsidies as a human right. We're not being naive in this belief.

Continuing, Mrs. Hunter, when many of we homeowners see our taxes rising, the stability of our neighborhood and the value of our homes threatened by the building of the project, we have a right to be concerned. We are concerned with the Lincoln Green project and the rash of other such projects being proposed throughout the metropolitan area. We see such projects as a means of controlling votes and neighborhoods, as has been done in other areas, by secretly making the requirement of getting into such housing dependent on how one voted in primary elections.

In conclusion, Mrs. Hunter, I have no idea of what race, color or creed you represent, and I care less. I do say this, there is no racial prejudice on my part and among most of my neighbors in this controversy. Most of us resent any such charges. Nearly all of us moved into this area years before the present dispute, depending upon the village's zoning creating a stable community of single-family homes not congested with apartments, townhouses and heavy traffic. Anyone, regardless of race, color or creed can, and have, purchased homes in this community. The June 1975 ruling of Judge Swygert did not take this into consideration, probably because we homeowners failed to become involved directly in the suit. Our constitutional rights were thus overlooked by the court and violated. If such objection now is "naivete," so be it!

Hits license plate costs

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is a copy of a letter to Illinois Secretary of State Michael Howlett.

Please note the enclosed article from the Des Plaines Herald. The article confirms my suspicions in such that the special request license number/letter service requires a considerable amount of manpower or I should say "additional" manpower to operate.

I can't help but feel that this "service" is costing me, and millions more in Illinois like me who do not participate in this nonsense, extra costs each year for our plates.

Please don't feel that I am being hostile towards those who happen to show different interest than myself, I just feel that those who wish to have this special servicing should pay for it on an individual basis. Those who elect to fly first class on our airlines certainly pay a surcharge for this special service.

I thank you for your time, and would appreciate any comments you may have on this matter.

U.S. should outlaw torture-like traps

Congress is presently studying a bill to reduce the inhumane practice of permitting trappers to use leghold traps to capture fur-bearing animals.

The bill, if it is approved by Congress, would:

• Set up a committee to determine which traps are humane.

• Halt the use of unapproved traps on federal lands.

• Forbid the interstate sale of traps judged to be inhumane.

• Require approved traps to be checked every 24 hours to prevent starvation or prolonged torment of trapped animals.

Opponents of the traps, such as actress Mary Tyler Moore, have said that animals whose legs are caught in the leghold traps endure unbelievable pain and torment. It is claimed that some animals even chew off their leg to get out of the trap.

There are traps available which kill instantly. For the sake of the animals, we urge Congress to approve the bill it is now considering, which is a small step towards "humanizing" the trapping industry.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22 — The Continental Congress commissioned Esek Hopkins of Rhode Island as commander-in-chief of the new American Navy at a salary of $125 a month. Others among the 17 new officers were Capt. Dudley Saltonstall, Capt. Nicholas Biddle and Lt. Paul Jones.

Des Plaines decision irks her

When the Herald was delivered to our home on Tuesday, I could read no further than the front page — I really saw red!

We on the west side of Des Plaines spend hours every year waiting for a freight train — this wait is usually just annoying and aggravating, but at times dangerous, since those tracks have to be crossed to reach a hospital. We were very grateful for some future relief when it looked as though some concrete plans were finally being made for a railroad underpass.

Then as soon as some pressure was exerted on our illustrious aldermen, they immediately copped out rather than risk the displeasure of some of our citizens regarding the location of this underpass, by tabling consideration, again postponing action. One alderman even went so far as to consider abandoning the whole project because there will not be unanimous approval of the location.

Oakton Street was originally recommended by a group that had studied the proposed site and appears to be a very logical location, since that street is already a four-lane commercial street.

I strongly urge the Des Plaines City Council to take immediate action to correct the reactionary and cowardly motion to table this desperately needed underpass. Please consider the best interests of the Des Plaines citizens rather than the special interests of a very small minority.

Gives voters chance to buck system

Doctor launches write-in candidacy for governor

by STEVE BROWN

A baby got in the way of Dr. Vincente Traina's campaign for governor recently, but that probably will happen quite a bit in the next two months as the Rochelle physician mounts his write-in effort for the office.

Traina huffed and puffed into Arlington Heights apologizing about an unexpected delivery and his subsequent late arrival.

'I am only doing this part-time you know," he said. The "this" is his self-admitted exercise in futility which involves a write-in campaign for governor.

TRAINA CONTENDS he is not on an ego trip, rather he is trying to offer the people in Illinois a chance to vote against the current political system.

The idea of a political unknown being elected to office is not unheard of in the state. Remember the dashing corporate attorney from Montgomery Ward?

But the idea of a write-in candidate winning a statewide office is totally unheard of in Illinois, even Traina admits this.

Traina said he is out to close the credibility gap which exists between public officials and the public. He proposes officials make all of their statements under oath.

"THEY ARE JUST trying to fool the people to get a vote. If they made the statements under oath and were later proved false then they could be charged with perjury," he explains.

DR. VINCENZO TRAINA

The doctor, who actually lives in Chana, which is a suburb of Rochelle in Ogle County, about 100 miles west of Chicago, plans to spend $10,000 of his own money for the campaign.

Asked why he did not donate the money to some cancer research project, Traina, who smokes Pall Malls, said he would rather "cure the political system than cancer."

"You cannot do anything with $10,000," he added. Traina has no campaign literature to speak of and is depending on newspaper stories to tell his message to the people. He talked with a number of papers in western Illinois and will travel to the southern part of the state next month. So far the Chicago media has ignored the campaign, he said.

Traina is no newcomer to the write-in candidate role, he ran for the Ogle county Board once and got 300 votes.

Besides his "statements under oath issue" Traina said he would also propose programs to:

- Modify the welfare system so persons who are working could obtain supplemental funds to help make ends meet. "The system encourages people to stay on welfare."
- Cut the salaries of public officials. "How do you restrain a bricklayer from seeking a $3 per hour raise when he sees the politicians increasing their salaries."
- Develop a drug abuse program concentrating on heroin traffic, because users of that drug usually resort to crime to pay for their habit. "Take the profit out of the heroin trade and the syndicate would move on to something else."

Traina, 51, also admits that he does not know much about running state government, but indicates he would seek to hire experts to handle that end of the business. He also said he would continue to practice medicine if elected and donate his fees to charity.

"People think there is nothing they can do about the system. By going to the polls and voting for me, they can at least express dissatisfaction with the other candidates and the system," he said.

"Electability should not give politicians the power to rule people," Traina said.

U.S. poverty rolls low, Catholic Church alleges

by DAVID E. ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There are 40 million poor people in the United States — 65 per cent more than government figures, the Roman Catholic Church's anti-poverty agency said Sunday.

According to federal government figures, there were 24.3 million poor persons in the United States in 1974. The government figures are based on a sliding scale of income needed to provide food, clothing, shelter and medical care.

In an 80-page report, "Poverty Profile 1975," the Catholic Church's Campaign for Human Development said. "The government's yardstick for measuring the number of poor Americans is radically unfair, given any of the variables listed — real cost of living, provision of adequate diet and habitable housing, decent participation as a member of society."

THE STUDY SAID that in 1969 the poverty index represented 54 per cent of the average median family income, but in 1974 it represented only 40 per cent.

"The relative capability of a poor person to participate in society, if the government's poverty standard is used, is far lower now than in 1969.

"Hence," it added, "claims that the poor have decreased in number from 39 million to 24.3 million from 1959 to 1974 ignore the fact that, relative to a minimum decent standard of living, the poor have not decreased in number. If the poverty index were 54 per cent of the median income now, the number of poor Americans would be almost 46 million."

The study suggested "a more equitable" poverty index could be figured at half of the average median income for families - $6,420.

"THIS STANDARD would result in a conservative estimate of poor people at about 40 million — or about one in every five Americans.

"It reveals that the government, caught in a political bind to keep expenses down and its reputation up, has done much to hide the facts," the study said.

The study also criticized government welfare programs as "cumbersome in administration and indirect in their approach. As such, they are costly and incomplete."

IT SAID: "Profit-oriented economic and political systems, which are based on compromises among self-interested power groups, cannot, by their nature, care for the powerless.

"The poor do not have the resources to participate in the free enterprise system which our society extols," the report said.

The Campaign for Human Development is the antipoverty education-action program of the U.S. Catholic Conference. In the past five years, the Campaign has funded 800 self-help antipoverty programs with grants totaling $25 million.

Campbell oyster stew OK: official

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — More than 100,000 pounds of James River oysters, possibly containing traces of the ant and roach poison Kepone, have been sent to Campbell Soup plants in New Jersey and Canada, authorities said Sunday.

A Campbell Soup spokesman in Camden, N.J., said the company currently is using no James River stock, which the firm received during the past 14 months, and that all of the company's condensed oyster stew products now on retail shelves are "normal and wholesome."

Federal officials plan to conduct tests to determine if the oysters have been contaminated by the insecticide which hospitalized several former employes of a now-defunct Hopewell, Va., firm where the Kepone was produced.

DR. ROBERT S. Jackson, state epidemiologist, said it is not known if any traces of Kepone were present in the oysters or, if the poison is found, whether small amounts are dangerous to humans.

Jackson said he believes a small amount of Kepone is not harmful to humans, but he said he notified the FDA as a precautionary measure.

M. L. Straight, director of the FDA district office in Baltimore, said the agency did not learn of the possible contamination until Dec. 5, because of an unexplained failure of the Environmental Protection Agency to alert the FDA.

Of the 28 former Life Science Products Co. employes hospitalized, all had a large quantity of the pesticide in their blood. Effects of a small amount of Kepone on humans is not known.

WORKERS INFECTED with Kepone suffered from brain and liver damage, slurred speech, tremors and twitching eyes. Researchers at the National Cancer Institute have determined Kepone causes cancer in rats and mice but say further tests are needed to determine if it is carcinogenic in humans.

THE EPA last week reported finding traces of Kepone in the James River as far as 65 miles away from the Hopewell plant. The finding promopted Gov. Mills E. Gowin Jr. to ban fishing in the river and its tributaries.

Straight said samples of the oysters sent to Campbell Soup's Camden, N.J., plant are to be delivered to Baltimore Monday for testing. He said it will take about a week to get the results.

He says his agency has no authority to stop distribution of any possibly contaminated product until it has evidence of a health hazard.

"AS LONG AS a person is not continually exposed to it, I don't think it is harmful," Jackson said. "From our findings, only persons continually exposed to it have become ill."

He admitted, however "it's still an open question the effects of a small amount of Kepone on humans. We don't know what it does, we are looking at that now."

In Camden, the Campbell's spokesman said less than four per cent of the oyster stock used in the company's stew since this year's oyster harvest began Oct. 1 has come from the James River.

He said they are currently using no "James River stock."

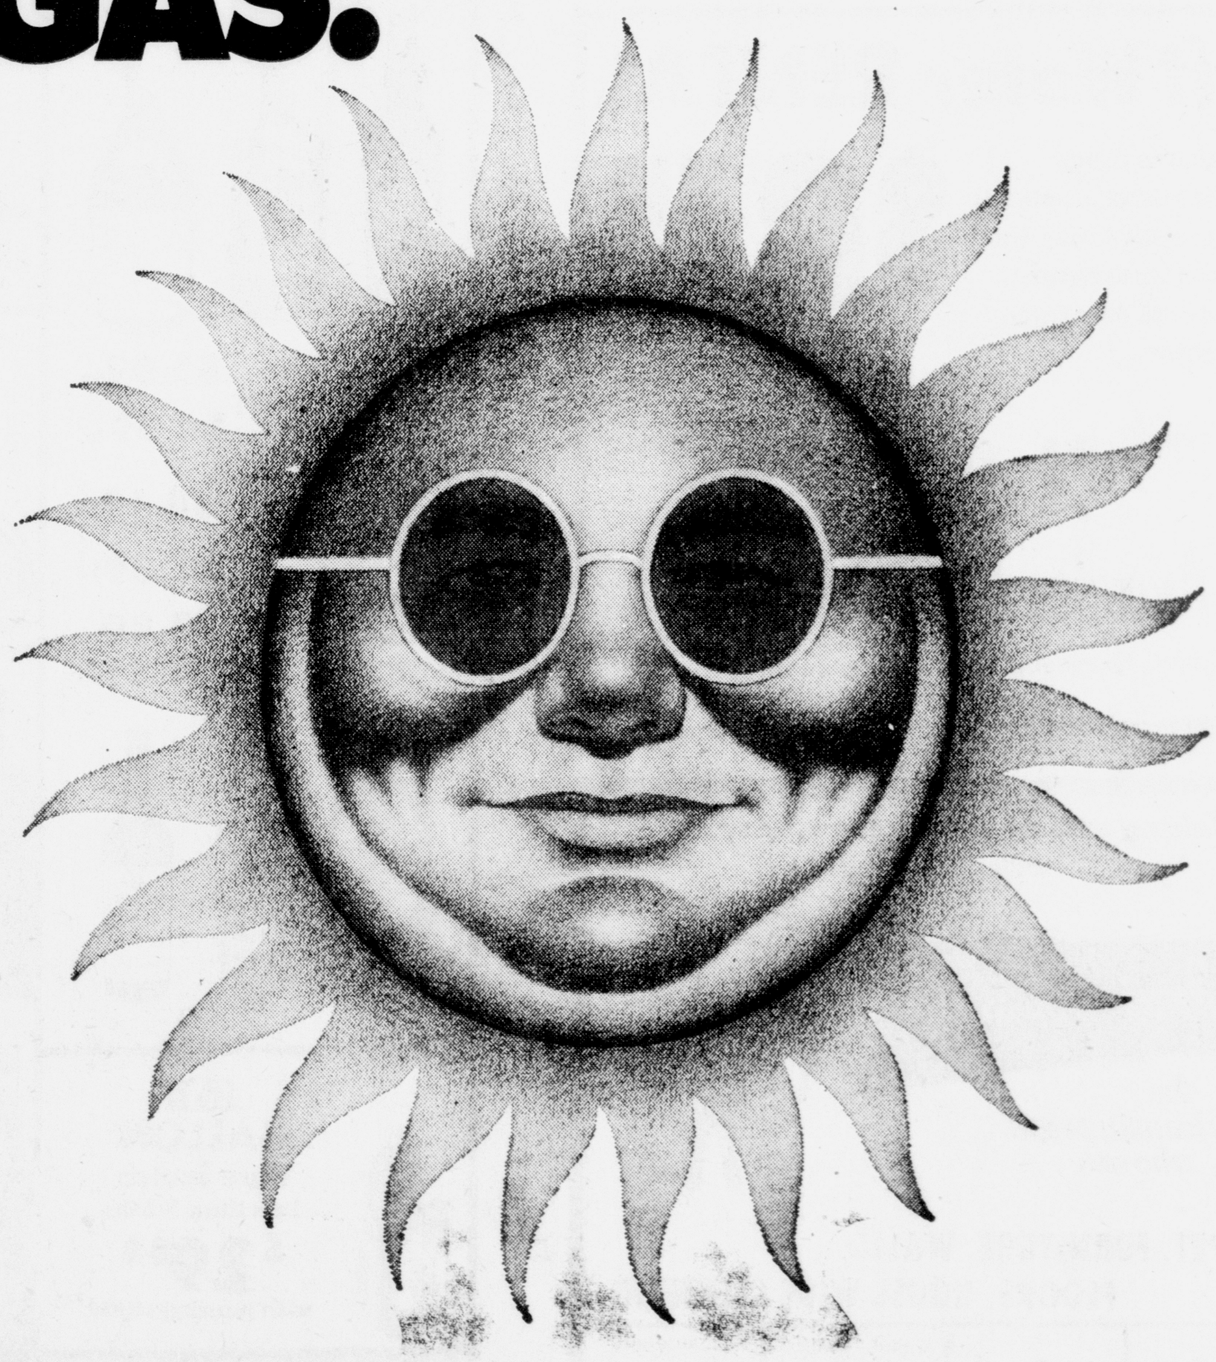
ONLY THE SUN GIVES THE PEOPLE OF ILLINOIS MORE ENERGY THAN NI-GAS.



Thirty-six percent of all the utility energy used in Illinois comes from Northern Illinois Gas Company. More than from any other gas or electric company in the state.

But that's only half our story.

The other half is all the energy NI-Gas people are putting into meeting your need for more pure, clean natural gas.

And keeping gas the greatest energy value under the sun.

Long range, we're investing more millions in exploration for new natural gas reserves in the Gulf of Mexico.

Closer to home, we're continuing to expand our underground storage system (already the largest of its kind in the world). So we can buy all available gas and store part for winter use when customer needs are greater than pipeline deliveries.

This year, our new Aux Sable Supplemental Natural Gas plant, built at a cost of over $80 million, will manufacture enough gas from liquid hydrocarbons to supply 300,000 of our residential heating customers. We're continuing our energy conservation surveys for commercial and industrial customers to help them save gas.

And we're increasing our emphasis on new techniques and technology to bring you better service and hold cost down.

These are just a few of the things NI-Gas is doing. Because, the way we see it, being the largest energy distributor gives us the largest responsibility to the people of Illinois. And we're going to live up to that responsibility, no matter how much energy it takes.

Northern Illinois Gas Company

WE'RE PUTTING MORE ENERGY INTO ILLINOIS THAN ANYBODY.

Cazzie Russell delights crowds with quick points

"When Cazzie is hot, he could score from a locked room."
"Some nights, Cazzie throws in so many points so fast the scoreboard is two baskets behind."
"Cazzie could play in the dark and hit 15 or 16 in spurts."

The greatest scorer in the history of basketball was Wilt Chamberlain. It says so right on p. 262 of the NBA Guide. What it doesn't tell you is who was the FASTEST scorer in the history of basketball. Most people, including teammates, coaches and opponents, who are authors of the above quotes, agree that this is Cazzie Russell, who scores points in such swift succession some nights the scoreboard seems to have developed a stutter.

Some people are known as "Mr. Two Points," but Cazzie is "Mr. Two-Two-Two-Two Points." He is not the most prolific scorer in the game in per-minute play. But the elapsed time between the first basket and the 10th of this Gatling gunner of the Lakers is frequently only a few minutes.

Cazzie is the sixth man on the Lakers. The "sixth man" concept is credited to Red Auerbach of the Celtics, and such celebrated scorers as John Havlicek and Frank Ramsey played part or most of their careers at this demanding position for him.

A sixth man is a specialist who is rushed into the game at the odd moment when the front five seem to have developed lock wrist or basketball elbow and suddenly are a 1-for-12 from the floor or worse. The basket seems to have shrunk or developed a lid.

A sixth man is sent in not to mark time for a teammate in foul trouble. He's not the equivalent of a penalty-killer in hockey. His job is to pinch a hole in that basket quickly, so that the temporary log jam of air balls isn't terminal. Cazzie has to get the team out of handcuffs.

Cazzie Russell, who played his high school ball in Chicago, does this better than anyone since the young Havlicek. His scoring bursts are legendary. His career totals compare favorably with guys who have played three times as many minutes. Cazzie's job is to throw up a whole flock of unanswered points — to open fire. Cazzie is not out there to bunt.

Cazzie Russell (and Bill Bradley) may have revived the career of the 6-5 forward. Coaches and general managers had figured Elgin Baylor would be the last in the NBA. A scorer who can come off the point and make 10 baskets in a row, as Cazzie has, has revised this thinking.

To opponents, it sometimes seems as if there are three of him. Released from the bench, Cazzie runs out on the floor like a litter of bobcats let out of a bag. He looks like a one-man cat-and-dog fight. He runs around the floor like he was circling wagons. The guy who guards him gets cross-eyed. Cazzie is in such furious motion that the guy who drew picture of him for the ad in the paper put the wrong number on him. The way Cazzie runs around, he was lucky it was only one digit off.

Cazzie believes he is able to be such a model of frenetic energy because he treats his body as if it were something that might leave him if he took it for granted. "I don't eat junk food on the road," he says. Pizza parlors are safe from him. So are taco stands and all-night diners.

Although the basketball only weighs 22 ounces, Cazzie prepares his body as if he had to throw the 16-pound shot. Breakfast is frequently a witch's brew of hot tea, honey, herbs, or apple juice and wheat germ. Soups, salads, lean meat and eggs (poached) make up the rest of the day's diet. Cazzie frequently boards planes with equal piles of vitamins, crossword puzzles and paperback best-sellers.

Cazzie thinks his diet makes him a fast healer. When he tore a lateral ligament in a low-bridge foul in an exhibition game a year ago, the doctors thought Cazzie would be out a season if not a career. Cazzie came back Jan. 21 and threw in 24 points in 27 minutes. They took him out then because of the fire laws. The basket was beginning to glow.

Elk Grove captures team crown in gym invitational

Tom Balla

Tim Connelly

Gene Christensen

Dave Scheible

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

Like applying extra weight on each successive event the Elk Grove Grenadiers ground down the opposition in the 9th annual Maine East Gymnastics Invitational Saturday to win the meet with a convincing 49.0 score.

The Grens were all the more impressive for the diversity of performers they showed as five different gymnasts contributed to the championship.

The Prospect Knights further showed the gym power of the Mid-Suburban League by taking second with 47.8.

After Matt Damore opened for the Grens on trampoline with a 7.5, side horse specialist Tim Connelly really got things rolling by winning his event with a near flawless 8.75 routine. Prospect's Dave Scheible took a fourth place on the event with an 8.15.

On trampoline the MSL picked up two medals when Bob Barut of Hersey took a third place at 8.05 and Glenn Johnson of Rolling Meadows a fifth at 7.6.

Hersey finished back in the pack with 39.95 points but Rolling Meadows missed a shot at the third place trophy, finishing fifth at 45.25.

"Side horse and P-Bars are what hurt us," said Meadows' coach Vic Avigliano. "If we had been able to hit there we'd have been up for a trophy."

Elk Grove continued to apply the pressure with each event, though, as their final five competitors fired in the eights on their events.

Jim Schwartz threw an 8.05 to place second on the P-Bars, the event being captured by Craig Martin of Maine South with an 8.55.

Gene Christensen of Elk Grove missed a medal for his 8.1 showing on free ex but Prospect's Doug Zahour took a third at 8.2 to tie with Chris Hirth of Rolling Meadows. Steve Waichler of Oak Park won the event with a 8.35.

Martin, who looks at this point to be heir apparent to Bart Conner's state all-around title, took a second with 8.25 and scored at least 8.0 in each of the four events he worked.

Conner, himself, was on hand at the meet, demonstrating the Olympic compulsory routines he'll be using to try for the 1976 United States team.

Conner looked suitably awesome in each event he worked, being judged randomly by Maine East coach Tom Gardner at 9.45 on the P-Bars, but the heat in the gym sapped much of the enthusiasm from the audience and the Niles West ace didn't get the excitement he deserved.

The still rings event was dominated

York wrestlers rule Prospect holiday feature

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

York propelled seven entries into the finals and five came away with blue ribbons Saturday, allowing the Dukes to breeze to championship honors at the 17th Annual Prospect Holiday Wrestling Tournament.

Led by the Farina brothers, Mike and Jim, the Elmhurst-based school rolled up 123 points to easily dethrone Downers Grove North. Rockford East captured second place honors with 81½ points while DGN just barely edged out Maine South for third, 64-63½.

Of the two Duke grapplers who failed in the title round, one was turned back by Knight Terry Reed. Reed and teammate Carl Schimmelmann both made it to the winner's circle as Prospect showed a remarkable comeback from last year's 20-point last place windup by nosing three other clubs out for a fifth place finish.

The showing of coach Darryl Phillips' Knights was made more impressive by the fact that they accomplished it without the services of their ace heavyweight Don Meyer, who sustained a knee injury in practice during the week.

Prospect came away with 56 points while Niles West had 55 and Forest View 51. The Falcons advanced three grapplers into the final round but all then suffered setbacks.

Mike Farina was one of two 1974 Prospect tourney champs retaining their crowns Saturday. Two others, Bob Porter of Niles West and Kurt Fiech of Maine South, had the opportunity to repeat but lost out in championship round action.

Rockford's Dave Palmeno retained his 119-pound title by blanking Tom Smith of Forest View in the finals 10-0. Smith had made it that far in impressive fashion, with 7-1 and 11-0 verdicts.

Mike Farina, meanwhile, stopped Bob Porter 5-1 to grab the 105-pound crown. Farina lost out at this same weight to Falcon John Gross last year while Porter was gaining top honors at 98.

Porter's brother Bill had better success this time around, claiming the 112-pound throne with a second-round fall. The brothers act continued to the 126-pound bracket where Jim Farina earned a 10-2 decision in the finals over Len Stiede of Downers Grove.

Fiech, the 126-pound titlist in '74, was pinned in the 132-pound finals by Kurt Tucibat of Maine North. Also ending in a pin was the 185-pound title bout with Gary Goebel of the Dukes, sticking Falcon Lon Reitz.

Forest View's other finalist was Mike Lucansky, who dropped an 8-0 decision to DGN's Noel Carter for 98-pound laurels. The Falcons had two other entries, Jeff Lowe at 105 and Marshall Stamm at 155, win consolation titles.

Reed, at 145, opened with a 6-3 win and then stopped Tom Andersen of

Glenbrook South tourney begins

Four area squads are among 16 teams entered in the prestigious Glenbrook South Holiday Tournament beginning today.

Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Hersey and Wheeling will be aiming at the title scooped up by Glenbrook North last season. Other entries are Antioch, Barrington, Evanston, LaGrange, Lakeview, Libertyville, New Trier West, Niles East, Notre Dame and Riverside-Brookfield.

Monday's sessions will begin at 1 and 7 p.m. The semifinals will start at 1 p.m. Tuesday and the final round goes off at 6 p.m. tomorrow.

Bear rookies on display in 42-17 win over Saints

The Chicago Bears finished their season on an encouraging note Sunday with a 42-17 thumping of the Saints in the spectacular New Orleans Superdome.

The victory was achieved through the efforts of several Bear rookies and came at the expense of the hapless Saints, a team with a lame-duck coach and an injured quarterback who viewed the entire game from the sidelines.

The 42 points was the most a Bears' team had scored since 1965 when Gale Sayers went on a six-touch-down rampage to lead his team to a 62-21 win over San Francisco.

Coach Jack Pardee's men showed an offensive attack that had not been evident through the team's first 13 games. It was led by a quarterback who was a third-stringer when the season started and a tight end whose only pro experience was with the defunct World Football League.

Their names: Bob Avellini and Greg Latta.

Rookie quarterback Avellini fired three touchdown strikes to tight end Latta and ran one yard for another score, leading the youthful Bears to a runaway over the Saints.

Latta, also a rookie, teamed with Avellini on scores of 13 and five yards in the first half and a 20-yarder in the fourth period.

The Bears finished the season with a 4-10 record, against the 2-12 record for the Saints, the worst in New Orleans' nine-year history.

Avellini's early score, on a one-yard jaunt, and his first two tosses to Latta, gave the Bears a 21-10 halftime lead. Chicago then put the game out of reach with three quick touchdowns midway through the second half, all scored by rookies.

Cornerback Virgil Livers intercepted a pass from Saints backup quarterback Larry Cipa and ran it back 40 yards for the score; Latta took his third scoring pass, and running back Walter Payton stunned the Saints with a 54-yard run down the right sideleline.

The Saints scored on a five-yard run by Rod McNeil, a one-yard run by Andrew Jones and a 19-yard field goal by Rich Szaro.

Avellini finished the game with 15 completions in 23 attempts for 268 yards, and Payton was the top rusher in the game with 25 carries for 130 yards.

Cipa, starting for the first time this year in place of injured Archie Manning, was 10 for 29 and 129 yards. He was intercepted three times.

The Bears controlled the game from the first quarter when Avellini opened the scoring with his one-yard run on their third possession of the game. The TD capped a 10-play, 75-yard drive highlighted by two pass completions to Payton. Avellini's first scoring pass completed a three-play, 70-yard drive.

Avellini escaped a fierce Saints rush to rifle his third touchdown toss to Latta. Payton also evaded a knot of Saints tacklers on his long touchdown scamper.

McNeill's touchdown for the Saints was set up by an interference call against the Bears which gave New Orleans a first down on the Chicago six-yard line. A defensive holding penalty against the Bears also helped move the Saints in the drive that led to Szaro's field goal.

Colts' 9th straight win gains playoff berth

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Colts have put the finishing touches on one of the most startling turnarounds in National Football League history.

"You've got the makings of a good football team when you continually come back from adversity," said running back Lydell Mitchell, who scored a key fourth-period touchdown on an 11-yard run set up by linebacker Stan White's interception to give Baltimore its ninth straight victory, 34-21 over the New England Patriots.

"We got here by hard work. The guys have been tremendous."

The Colts, built nearly from scratch by General Manager Joe Thomas and superbly coached by Ted Marchibroda, were 2-12 a year ago and 1-4 early this season, but they completed their rags-to-riches journey and clinched their first playoff spot since 1971 Sunday.

Baltimore's 10-4 record ties Miami in the American Football Conference Eastern Division. But the Colts beat the Dolphins twice during the season, and on that basis win the right to meet the defending NFL champion Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday in the first round of the playoffs.

White's interception gave the Colts the ball on the New England 44 yard line, and four plays later Mitchell scored the winning touchdown with 8:19 remaining to give Baltimore a 27-21 lead. Shortly after the kickoff, Patriot quarterback Steve Grogan was intercepted again, this time by cornerback Nelson Munsey, who carried it 30 yards for an insurance touchdown.

Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones, who completed 18 of 31 passes for 181 yards, scored one touchdown on an eight-yard touchddown run and passed to tight end Raymond Chester for another. Toni Linhart booted field goals of 19 and 31 yards as the Colts took a 20-14 lead after three periods.

The Patriots took a 21-20 lead early in the final period when Grogan, a rookie from Kansas State, directed a 60-yard, five-play drive and climaxed it with a one-yard sneak. Soccer-style kicker John Smith booted the conversion to give the Pats their one-point edge.

Wild card to Bengals

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals scored three quick touchdowns before the San Diego Chargers could run a play from scrimmage en route to an easy 47-17 victory that gave the Bengals the American Conference wild card berth in next weekend's playoffs.

The Bengals, who finished regular-season play with their finest-ever record of 11-3, challenge the Oakland Raiders next Sunday in an opening round playoff game in Oakland. In the regular season, the Bengals defeated the Raiders 14-10.

San Diego, never in the game after fumbling away its first two kickoff receptions, ended the season with a dismal 2-12 record.

Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson, setting club season records of 228 pass completions and 21 touchdown passes, fired three TD strikes in the first half to help the Bengals make theplayoffs for the third time in the last six years.

Anderson, who only played the first half, connected on 18 of 23 passes for 216 yards.

The Bengals were in command from the very start, taking the opening kickoff and driving 68 yards, with Anderson scoring the first of six Cincinnati first-half touchdowns on a two-yard run.

San Diego's Rickey Young fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Cincinnati's John McDaniel recovered on the Chargers' 11 to set up a six-yard touchdown pass from Anderson to rookie Stan Fritts.

Longley rallies Dallas

NEW YORK — Clint Longley, making his first pro start in place of injured Roger Staubach, threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to Drew Pearson in the third period Sunday to snap a tie and send the playoff-bound Dallas Cowboys to a 31-21 victory over the New York Jets.

Longley, a second-year man from Abilene Christian, rallied the Cowboys from a 14-point deficit and put them into the lead with his scoring pass to Pearson, who beat Rich Sowells in the corner of the end zone.

The victory was the 10th against four losses for the Cowboys, who earned the wild card playoff spot in the National Conference East last week. The Jets suffered their 11th loss in 14 games for the worst finish in their 15-year history. The only bright spot was fullback John Riggins, who gained 60 yards to push his season total to 1,003, the first Jet ever to surpass the 1,000 mark.

Staubach, who has bruised ribs, is expected to be ready to play next Sunday when the Cowboys open the playoffs at Minnesota. Jet quarterback Joe Namath, who did not complete a pass until the fourth quarter, also went out with a rib injury after hitting just 1-of-7 for seven yards in the worst performance of his 11-year career.

NFL roundup

Dallas, playing sloppy football early in the game, spotted the Jets a 14-0 first quarter lead before roaring back to tie the game with 3:41 left in the half.

Metcalf, Otis set marks

PONTIAC, Mich. — The St. Louis Cardinals rode record-setting performances by Terry Metcalf and Jim Otis into the playoffs Sunday, coasting to a 24-13 regular season-ending victory over the Detroit Lions.

Metcalf, who scored on a 14-yard run in the first quarter, got the NFL's all-purpose total yardage record he was looking for by accumulating 127 yards. His total yardage of 2,462, including rushes, pass catches and kick returns, broke the record of 2,444 Mack Herron set for New England last season.

Otis needed only 65 yards to set a new club rushing record and got 69 for a season total of 1,076 that gave him the National Football Conference rushing title. It also broke John David Crow's club record of 1,071.

Rookie Jerry Latin scooted 57 yards, the longest touchdown run from scrimmage in the conference this season, right after the Lions scored in the third quarter to give the Cardinals a 21-7 lead and Jim Bakken's 24-yard field goal in the fourth quarter clinched the game.

Dwayne Crump also sped 64 yards with a blocked field goal for a touchdown as St. Louis equalled its most wins ever in a season. The NFC Easter Division champion Cardinals will take an 11-3 record into their first round payoff game at Los Angeles. Detroit finished at 7-7.

St. Louis Coach Don Coryell rested Otis and quarterback Jim Hart and then took Metcalf out when he got his record on a 23-yard kickoff return. The return came after Dexter Bussey scored on a 32-yard run for Detroit on the third play from scrimmage of the second half.

Eagles upset 'Skins

WASHINGTON — Joe Lavender and Frank LeMaster returned two of seven Philadelphia interceptions for second half touchdowns Sunday to direct the Eagles to a season-closing 26-3 upset of the Washington Redskins.

In addition, Jim Outlaw's interception of a Randy Johnson pass and Mike Boryla's 33-yard toss to Charles Young set up a field goal which boosted Philadelphia to a 13-3 lead in the second period.

Three plays later, Lavender waylaid another Johnson pass and raced 36 yards for a touchdown. In the fourth period, LeMaster grabbed off a Joe Theismann throw and carried it 89 yards down the sideline into the end zone to complete the scoring.

The victory gave the Eagles a 4-10 record for the season while the Redskins, eliminated from playoff contention last week, wound up 8-6.

The Philadelphia secondary also prevented Washington's Charlie Taylor from setting a new all-time record for career receptions until early in the final period when he latched onto a Theismann toss for his 634th lifetime catch to give him one more than previous record holder Don Maynard.

Johnson and Theismann, filling in for a hospitalized Bill Kilmer, could generate no serious offense with Johnson being intercepted four times and Theismann three times.

Raiders nip Chiefs

OAKLAND — Pete Banaszak's third touchdown run of the game — a one-yard blast with 4:51 left — and three key defensive plays by Charles Phillips in the closing minutes Sunday enabled the AFC playoff-bound Oakland Raiders to finish the regular season with a 28-20 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

The victory gave the Raiders an 11-3 record and sent them into the opening round of the post-season playoffs at home next Sunday against the Cincinnati Bengals. The Chiefs finished the year with a disappointing 5-9 record and third place in the AFC-West.

Banaszak also scored on runs of five and three yards, and Morris Bradshaw grabbed a 16-yard pass from Ken Stabler as the Raiders built up a 21-13 first-half lead.

After a scoreless third quarter, Jeff Kinney wound up an 8-yard Kansas City drive with a one-yard run to shave the Oakland lead to only a point. Then the Raiders got the breaks they needed to score an insurance touchdown and Phillips set it all up.

First, the Rookie defensive back downed a punt by Ray Guy at the Kansas City one and on the initial play he recovered a fumble by Ed Podolak at the six. Three plays later Banaszak smashed in from the one for the touchdown that put the game out of reach for the Chiefs, who earlier in the season scored a 42-10 triumph over the Raiders.

Giants soak 49ers

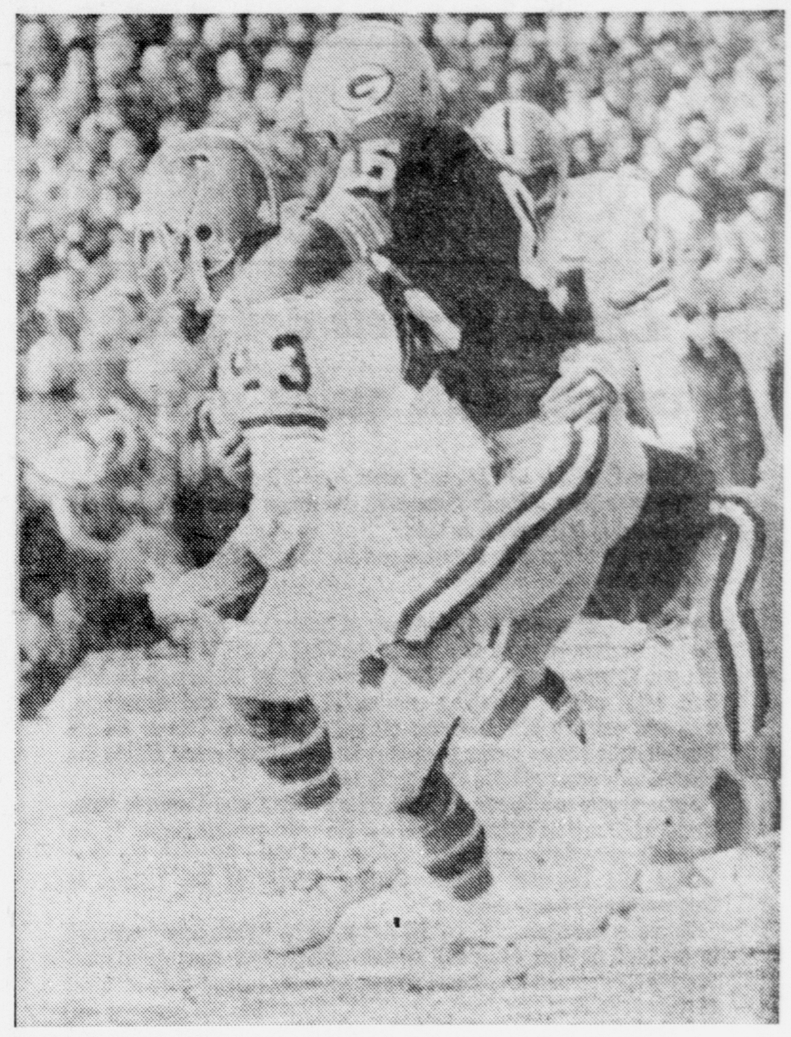
SAN FRANCISCO — Larry Watkins powered his way in from the one yard line following a pass interference call to give the New York Giants a rain-soaked 26-23 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

Watkins' score was set up when a punt by the Giants' Dave Jennings was downed on the one-yard line and the New York defnese held San Francisco on downs. Don Clune then returned a Tom Wittum punt to the 49ers' 37 yard line where the Giants began their winning drive.

Both teams thus ended frustrating seasons with 5-9 records.

The winning Giants tally came after the 49ers had wiped out a 10-point deficit to go ahead 23-20 in the seesaw contest.

After the Giants moved ahead 20-10 in the third stanza on a 31-yard Craig Morton to Ray Rhodes scoring toss, the 49ers rolled back with a 66-yard scoring drive.



GIDDY-UP. Atlanta running back Dave Hampton carries Packer Perry Smith horsey-style into the Sunday. Despite Hampton's efforts, which saw him surpass 1,000 yards rushing, Green Bay won, 22-13, in final game.

Packers beat Atlanta

GREEN BAY, Wis. — The Green Bay Packers took advantage of five Atlanta turnovers Sunday to post a 22-13 victory over the Falcons in the regular-season finale for both clubs despite a 61-yard rushing day by Dave Hampton which pushed him over the 1,000 mark for the first time in his career.

Both Atlanta and Green Bay finished the season with 4-10 records.

The only bright spot for the Falcons was the five-year veteran Hampton, whose 61 yards on 14 carries gave him 1,002 yards — after he missed the 1,000 mark by five yards and seven yards in two of the last three years.

The Packers got on the board first when they marched from their own 20 and Joe Danelo hit a field goal from 34 yards out.

Green Bay's Willard Harrell fumbled a punt late in the first quarter and Hampton scored a touchdown seven plays later on a one-yard run but Mike-Mayer missed the extra point.

The Packers made it 12-6 at the half on a 19-yard field goal by Danelo and a 15 yard run by Eric Torkelson. Barty Smith scored on a one-yard touchdown run in the third quarter to give the Packers a 22-6 lead.

Green Bay quarterback John Hadl completed 16 of 32 passes for 181 yards and set a Packer record for completions in one season. He finished with 191 for the year to break the old mark of 180 established by Tobin Rote in 1954.

Burrough lifts Oilers

HOUSTON — Speedy Ken Burrough ran under a 75-yard touchdown pass from Dan Pastorini en route to a 129-yard receiving day Sunday which lifted the Houston Oilers to their finest season since 1962 with a 21-10 victory over the Cleveland Browns.

The Curly Culp-led Oilers' defense, which carried Houston to a 10-4 season, kept the Browns outside its 25-yard line until the final minutes when an intereception allowed Cleveland to score on Ken Brown's four-yard run.

The Oilers' offense had put the game out of reach with three quick touchdowns in its first five possessions.

Pastorini used the running of Ronnie Coleman and a 22-yard pass to Burrough to set up the Oilers' first score late in the first quarter. Fullback Don Hardeman slashed two yards for the touchdown.

Less than two minutes later, Burrough beat Tony Peters down the left sideline, caught Pastorini's heave and outran Van Green into the endzone. The 75-yard catch boosted the seven-year veteran to his first 1,000-yard receiving year.

Burrough's 28-yard pass reception midway in the second quarter moved Houston to the Browns' two and Coleman scored on the next play, making the score 21-0.

Connors trails Mexico's Ramirez

With Mexico's Raul Ramirez leading Jimmy Connors of the United States two sets to one in the deciding fifth and final match, the North American Zone Davis Cup playoff was suspended late Sunday afternoon because of darkness. It will be completed Monday in Mexico City.

The match was halted in the fifth game of the fourth set, with Connors ahead three games to two.

Brian Gottfried of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., playing erratic but determined tennis, managed to outlast Mexico's Marcelo Lara 3-6, 6-2, 3-6, 8-6, 6-1 in a thrilling fourth match that tied up the playoffs at two-all.

The 24-year-old Gottfried's victory in the three-hour, 45-minute, five-set singles opener Sunday left it up to Connors, the world's number two player, and Ramirez, to decide the outcome of the series in the crucial fifth and final match.

Ramirez, the top Mexican player, put on a dazzling display of court skill against Connors who for much of the match was netting the ball and driving long and wide far too frequently.

Connors got off to a fast start, easily winning the first set 6-2. But Ramirez took charge in the second and third sets, winning them both by scores of 6-3.

Connors lost the ninth game of the third set after a line call which both he and Trabert unsuccessfully disputed with the chair and line judges.

Connors returned at the start of the fourth set — after a 20-minute rest — full of vim and vigor and took the first game handily. Ramirez tied it up in the second, Connors copped the third, Ramirez the fourth and Connors the fifth when the match was suspended.

Bulls beat Atlanta in overtime

The Chicago Bulls pulled out a 97-90 overtime win at Atlanta Sunday night as Tom Boerwinkle scored four points and added a big assist in the five-minute extra period. The Bulls had deadlocked the game at 85-85 in regulation, shaving Atlanta's six-point lead in the final two minutes.

The Bulls had closed the first half with a rush, wiping out Atlanta's nine-point lead with three minutes left until intermission. Bob Love, who had 16 points in the first half, crashed through for a driving layup to make it 45-43, and then Norm Van Lier drove the lane for the tying basket. Van Lier missed a free throw that would have given the Bulls a one-point halftime lead.

Atlanta had controlled the game for most of the first two periods, never trailing after the opening minute and holding a slim 19-18 edge at the end of the first quarter.

Black Hawks pull out 5-2 win

John Marks and Darcy Rota each scored two goals in the third period as the Chicago Black Hawks came from behind to defeat the New York Islanders, 5-2, at the Stadium Sunday night. Pit Martin scored an empty-net goal for the Hawks late in the game.

The Islanders scored a power-play goal just six seconds after the Hawks became shorthanded midway through the first period. Jude Drouin got the goal, beating Tony Esposito at the 10:48 mark.

New York jumped out to a 2-0 lead early in the second period, again shortly after the Islanders took a manpower advantage. Denis Potvin put the puck in the net at 5:44, just 15 seconds into the play.

by the MSL as four of six medals were taken by conference performers.

The sharpest of that quartet was Rolling Meadows' Dave Bycroft who placed second at 8.4. The event was won by Pete Velguth of Hinsdale Central. Even without all-arounder Breck Grigas the Red-Devils took a third place with 47.35 points and look more than capable of winning another state title in March.

Christensen, the only Grenadier to work two events, placed third on rings with 8.3 while Vince Corrado of Hersey and Glen Wilke of Prospect tied for fifth at 8.95.

Fred Rasmussen of York and Martin of Maine South tied for the high bar title with marks of 8.35 but Elk Grove's Tom Balla put the clinches on the team championship with a smooth 8.3 routine that earned him a third place medal.

Keith Liszewski of Rolling Meadows placed fourth with an 8.2 and Danny Muenz of Hersey took fifth at 8.15.

Conant took the team title of the Lake Park Invitational by a slim 5/16ths of a point to edge DeKalb. Hoffman Estates took fifth place.

Loughman sparks Harper victory; St. Viator wins on Wiloff basket

Steve Loughman exploded for 22 points, hitting 12 of 13 free throws, to lead the Harper Hawks to their third consecutive victory of the season Saturday night over Lake County 73-67.

The Hawks and Lancers fought through a toss up first half that was tied 32-all at intermission and then Loughman, going to the line often down the stretch, made the most of his chances.

"He made some really clutch free throws for us," Harper coach Roger Bechtold said. "I was pleased with Steve's and the whole team's shot selections. I think that's what won it for us in the second half."

The win boosted the Hawks to 4-7 on the season while Lake County, losing for the second time this year to Harper, dropped to 6-5.

"We play Oakton Monday night and I'd really like to have us win four straight going into the Highland Tournament," Bechtold said. "I really feel this team is going to make a lot of improvements the second half of the season."

Harper's Wally Butman and Steve Green more than held their own against the rough and tumble Lancers in what Bechtold described as the "most physical game we've been in this year."

Butman hit the boards for a team high 12 rebounds while Green hauled in 10. They also hit for 16 and 19 points respectively.

"Those two have been doing the brunt of the board work for us," Bechtold said.

The Hawks leading scorer, Jim Arden, had only four points on a 1-for-11 shooting night but Bechtold saw good things in his performance.

"I think the switch to guard has really bothered Jim's shooting," Bechtold said. "But teamwise he has really helped us out there. He has more to think about out at guard but he's given our offense more consistency and he's doing a good job as the weak side rebounder on our zone."

Lake County was led by Ray Michalak with 21 points.

LIONS TIP CARMEL

St. Viator head basketball coach Ron Cregier, contrary to reports, hasn't started talking to himself — yet.

After absorbing an 81-45 shellacking from Holy Cross Friday, the Lions bounced back to roll up a 22-3 first quarter score against visiting Carmel Saturday night.

Then the roof fell in — almost.

The Corsairs came back with 29 points in the second quarter and kept coming. But the Lions managed to win it on a shot with six seconds left, 72-70.

"It's becoming a game by game thing," said Cregier. "I never know what to expect."

Cregier knows what he's talking about. After a poor showing Friday, four of Viator's starters hit double figures Saturday. And the Viator defense, after holding the Corsairs' Tim Murray to one first perid bucket, let him run roughshod for three periods to finish with 34 for the night.

The Corsairs caught the Lions with :40 to go, 66-all, then tied them again with :20 left, 70-all. Getting the ball back, the Lions ran the clock down to :06 before they got the ball into forward Paul Wiloff who rebounded his miss to get the basket and the win for Viator, 72-70, with just two seconds left on the clock.

The Lions dominated the boards against the smaller Corsairs, grabbing 48 boards to Carmel's 24. Glen Girard led the Lions with 22 rebounds.

The Lions shot a hot 57 per cent from the field, hitting on 29 of 51 shots. The Corsairs also hit 29 shots from the field, but put the ball up 76 times for a 38 per cent accuracy.

The Lions, now 3-7 over-all and 2-2 in East Suburban Catholic play, take the holiday off before going back into action Friday at the York High School tourney. The Lions open the tourney with an 8:45 a.m. game Friday against Wheaton North.

Schaumburg plays today in tourney

The Schaumburg Saxons will open their title defense in the Luther North holiday basketball tourney with a game against Driscoll at 2:30 p.m. today.

The Saxons, now 7-1, swept through last year's Luther North tourney with four straight victories, including a 59-57 win over Driscoll. Schaumburg beat Austin in the championship game, but the Austin Tigers weren't invited back this year.

The 16-team tournament continues through the week and winds up on Saturday, Dec. 27.

The Saxons, win or lose, will play again on Tuesday. They'll have to bounce back from their first loss of the season, a 71-59 shellacking at the hands of Rolling Meadows on Friday.

Luther North is located at 5700 W. Berteau, Chicago.

Forest View 5-1 in the semis. In the finals he edged Maine South's George Mikos, 4-3.

Schimmelmann had a little tougher time en route to the 167-pound championship, sandwiching two close verdicts around a 3:27 pin in the semi-finals. His opening win was an impressive 9-7 nod over Hawk Tim Zimmerman and in the finals he went into overtime before gaining a ref's decision over Mark Ambrose of York.

John Esposito of York toppled John Heimej of Downers Grove for the top prize at 138 while Knight Bob Rossdeutcher pinned his way to a third place windup.

At 255 pounds Duke Larry Cripe bettered Paul Ericsen of Maine 3-1 in the finals and Greg Gilbaugh of the E-Rabs posted a 4-0 decision over Vince Spaeth of York for heavyweight honors.

Ask Andy

Giant crocodile is largest reptile

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Marie Hotakainen, 10, of Gilbert, Minn., for her question:

WHICH IS THE BIGGEST REPTILE IN THE WORLD?

The giant tortoise is as big as a pony, and the seagoing turtle is even bigger. Some of the whopping snakes are more than 20 feet long, and one of the grand-daddy lizards weighs 300 pounds. All these animals are reptiles — and so are the toothy crocodiles. And one of the crocodiles happens to be the largest of the reptiles.

Nowadays there are about 6,000 different reptiles in the world, and not one of them is as big as an elephant. However, in the dim distant past the world was populated mostly by dinosaur reptiles. They came in all shapes and sizes, including some whoppers. Some of the biggies were 90 feet long and weighed 85 tons.

A giant dinosaur was as big as a house. But as we know, many millions of years ago all the dinosaurs departed from the earth — though nobody knows why. However, other reptiles survived. They are the snakes and turtles, lizards and crocodiles in our modern world. It is not easy to judge the biggest because they come in such different shapes.

No doubt the longest reptile is a snake, perhaps measuring 28 feet. He may weigh about 400 pounds. A pony-size land tortoise weighs about 500 pounds, including his heavy shell. The giant sea turtle may weigh as much as 1,500 pounds. But he is not the biggest or the heaviest reptile in the world.

Some of our lizards look somewhat like small copies of the great dinosaurs of ancient times. One of them is a toothy monster called the Komodo dragon. His snaky body is 10 feet long, and he weighs about 300 pounds. But he is not the biggest reptile in the modern world.

Without a doubt, the champion is a giant crocodile. From his toothy snout to his scaly tail he measures about 23 feet and his total weight is a ton. Chances are, he lives in one of the lazy streams that flows into the great Amazon River of South America. However, he has African cousins living in the Nile River. And some of these crocodile kinfolk may be 20 feet long, or almost as big as the champ.

The giant female lays 90 or so soft white eggs and buries them under a great pile of warm earth. She guards the nest through four months. Then the babies begin to grunt in their shells,and she removes the piles of debris. The newly hatched babes are about one foot long, and each year they grow about 10 inches longer. And a giant crocodile may be more than 20 years old.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to David Layman, 11, of Kilmarnock, Va., for his question:

HOW HOT OR COLD IS THE MOON?

The moon turns on its axis to face the sun with first one side, then the other. The earth does the same thing during our day and night periods. However, the moon rotates more slowly and the lunar period of day and night equals about 28 earth days. There is no lunar atmosphere to soften the sun's rays or to save some of the daytime heat through the night. So naturally the temperature swings between extreme heat and extreme cold.

During the day, the blazing sun beats down on the lunar landscape without mercy. At high noon, the temperature at the moon's equator soars to 260 degrees Fahrenheit. At night, all the day's heat escapes into outer space and the temperature drops to around minus 280 degrees Fahrenheit. No wonder the astronauts needed insulated spacesuits to keep out the heat and the cold.

West pulls uppercut for set in this play

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Oswald: 'The name 'Uppercut' is given to those trump promotion plays in which a defender plays a moderately high trump to force declarer to use a higher trump and thereby develop an extra trump trick for the defense."

Jim: "West wins the first two tricks with the king and queen of spades. He sees no hope in a trump, diamond or club lead and decides his best chance to get two more tricks is to promote his ten of trumps. An uppercut is indicated, so he leads his five of spades."

Oswald: "East has to cooperate. If he just ruffs with the five spot, South will be able to overruff with the six. However, East sees what his partner is trying to do and plays the eight."

Jim: "That little eight spot has become a killer. South has to use an honor to overruff and now East is sure of two trump tricks and a plus instead of a large minus score."

Christmas past

Residents recall memorable events of holidays gone by

by BARBARA LADD

Snowflakes. . .
Songs. . .
Santa Claus. . .

Christmas seasons often seem alike, steeped in traditional patterns of eating, buying, card-writing or church-going. But there are also special memories. A perfect present. . .a childhood experience. . .an unexpected tragedy. . .

Ford Wilson, a 75-year-old retired Mount Prospect man who previously worked for Dun and Bradstreet, remembers an unpaid dime from the 1900s.

"I came from coal mining country in Pennsylvania," he said. "At the little church I went to, the son of a lady who ran a boarding house was paid 10 cents to pump the organ." (In those days someone had to pump air into the bellows of the organ so the music would sound.)

THE BOY never showed up on Christmas Eve for the Sunday school programs, Wilson said. "And I'd get stuck pumping the organ and never got to be in any of the programs."

That wouldn't have been so bad, he explained. "But I didn't get the dime either. The church gave it to the kid who never showed up."

Twelve-year-old Kathie Weber, daughter of the John S. Webers, Arlington Heights, clearly recalls her Santa Claus.

"When I was real little, Dad dressed like Santa Claus and came to our house," she said. "But before he'd come in, he'd jump on the roof to make it sound like reindeer."

She and her sisters would have a chair ready for him to rest in, Kathie said. "And we'd ask him all sorts of questions."

"WE'D ASK where he and the reindeer came from last and he'd say 'the nearest bar' or something like that," she said.

Two Mount Prospect pastors have more somber recollections of Christmas events.

Robert Matthews, Trinity United Methodist Church, told of a Christmas Eve Sunday school program involving about 50 young children. The traditional nativity scene was being re-enacted. The setting was complete with a straw manger and Christmas trees — and a little angel who bumped into a candelabrum, setting fire to her wings.

Four quick-thinking men from that Nebraska congregation saved the little girl and the rest of the church from going up in flames, said Pastor Matthews.

"And after it was all over, the real blessing was a new gratitude," he said.

PASTOR DAVID Quill, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, used to live and work in Minnesota. One year he was attending a high school program, he said. "The auditorium was full and the choirs were singing. . ."

In the middle of the performance someone called him out and told him about a death that just occurred. Pastor Quill was asked to get the wife of the victim from the auditorium and tell her of the death.

"We went into a side room in the school," he said. "Just as I was telling her the news, I could hear the choir singing 'Silent Night'. . .There is a lot of sentimentality associated with Christmas — parents and children gathered around the tree and all the warmth and happiness — this brings us to stark reality."

However, many have happier memories of Christmas-gone-by. Raymond Hinrichs, a milkman from Palatine, said his clearest impression of Christmas as a child is going to his grandparents' Schaumburg church on Christmas Eve with big bandana handkerchiefs. During the program the handkerchiefs would be filled with nuts, candy and oranges.

"THAT SEEMS like a silly thing to remember," Hinrichs chuckled. "But that really stands out in my mind — all that candy in those big handkerchiefs."

Another Palatine resident, Lucille Tomek, told about trying to get a huge Christmas tree home in her compact car already packed with herself and her four children. "I still don't know how we managed," she laughed. "But we did."

Meriam Grimes, a retired teacher living in Des Plaines, remembers sledding and skating with her brothers, sisters and cousins on Christmas day. And Sandy Leggett, 18, from Hoffman Estates, and her boyfriend unintentionally bought each other exactly the same ski sweaters for each other last Christmas, she said. "We even bought them in the same store."

IN THE Arlington Heights days of bob-sleighs and hitching posts, Herman Redeker, now a retired real estate broker living in Schaumburg, was a Santa Claus in his father's store. He would sit in the store window and pass out candy to the people who stopped by.

"One year some little boys set fire to my beard," he laughed.

But there was no Santa Claus for Larry Robertson, Wheeling, during his stint in the Navy. One year, while still in the states, he and several buddies couldn't afford to go home for the holidays, so they improved their sagging spirits in a nearby bar, and on their way back to their apartment they stopped on the road and chopped down a little tree, he said.

"It was only three feet tall and must have only had six branches on it," he laughed. "We couldn't afford decorations so we hung empty beer cans and cigaret wrappers on it. It sounds dumb, but that was our Christmas."

ROBERTSON, recently married and employed in Des Plaines as a lab-technician, worked on Christmas day when he was stationed in Viet Nam later. "We were running around in heavy coats and gloves because the temperature was 70 degrees. It had dropped from over 100 degrees the day before," he said.

It was raining, he said. And some orphans came to the base to sing Christmas carols. "I tried to call home," Robertson said. "But it was over a ham radio and I lost the connection somewhere in Nevada."

"I worked in the Armory and I remember thinking it was funny to be handling guns on Christmas. . .

Ironic or not, memories are different for everyone. Whether Santa jumps on roofs or servicemen decorate trees with beer cans and work with guns, Christmas 1975 will produce its own memorable events that some will recall as special in days ahead.

Gift books offer gardening ideas

(Capsule reviews prepared by the American Library Assn.)

by PAT HARRIS

A pervasive leafiness in most American homes and apartments today suggests that we've been undergoing a green revolution.

If you have already established a harmonious relationship with the plant kingdom, then you're ready to move forward with a number of new books which suggest specialized potting, planning and even pirating.

"The World of Terrariums" by Charles L. Wilson concentrates on the how-to's of constructing and maintaining terrariums, bottled gardens and miniature deserts. The author, an award-winning scientist, offers an especially interesting section on suggested experiments that gardeners can conduct to test for the effect of light quality, hormones and air pollutants on terrarium plants.

TO TEST for the effect of pollution, Wilson recommends placing a terrarium (not your best, of course) close to the exhaust pipe of a car, with the engine running. Within 15 minutes, Wilson predicts, you will see a marked effect on your plant. Unfortunately, he does not tell us how to bring our plants back from the dead.

More than 100 sources of plants and supplies are listed making this a valuable resource book.

When you find that you have outgrown terrarium gardening, you may be ready for the next step: a greenhouse. There are no mysteries or hidden meanings in the title of this book by Charles D. Neal: "Build Your Own Greenhouse: How to Construct, Equip and Maintain It!"

ALTHOUGH some of the precise detail and grandiose plans are beyond the capabilities of the average weekend gardener, Neal convinces us that there is a greenhouse for everyone. These include a window-model hothouse, the lean-to mini, the high-style variety with peaked roof and lattice-trimmed door or the mammoth-span model.

In "Pirating Plants," Peter Tobey's premise is that it is far cheaper, more interesting and more fun to propagate plants from seeds and cuttings, than to purchase them full-grown at the florist or nursery.

While I couldn't agree more, I don't think that the topic deserves so much of anyone's reading. The information is there, all right, but it is poorly organized and scattered. For example, why begin with a chapter on transplanting shrubs and trees when clearly what most modern household gardeners want to know is how to take a slip from a friend's coleus? If you are serious about getting some nice plants for nothing (aren't we all?), then take a look at a good gardening encylcopedia.

EVEN IF your garden is not thriving and in good order, you'll enjoy browsing through "Gifts from Your Garden," by Joan Scobey and Norma Myers, and discovering the many treasures you can make from the bounty of your windowsill or backyard.

The authors remind us not to let summer and fall flowers dry on the vine, but to dry them indoors so gardening pleasures can be enjoyed year-round. And, instead of buying a room deodorizer, why not make an aromatic potpourri or sachet? Instructions are given simply and there are lots of tips on methods, types of containers and preservatives. Although some of the ingredients may seem exotic, supply sources are listed.

"GIFTS FROM Your Garden" also includes a chapter on culinary delights — and, wisely, the authors caution the reader to follow recipes precisely. If you are not sure about a flower, save it for the centerpiece.

Imaginative ideas for gift giving abound and in these days of recycling, this is an especially good book to give or receive.

Doctor disagrees that hormone pills are overprescribed

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

The director of gynecology at Northwestern Memorial Hospital in Chicago has taken issue with recent reports that hormone pills prescribed for menopause cause cancer of the uterus.

Dr. Melvyn A. Bayly, who is also a professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Northwestern University Medical School, said last week there is "no evidence that low dosages of estrogen ever caused cancer in humans."

A Food and Drug Administration advisory group is currently looking into findings published this month in a medical journal that linked the estrogen hormones to increased risk of uterine cancer.

An estimated six to 10 million women are on the pills, a majority of them taking Premarin made by Averst Laboratories.

Last week Dr. Sidney Wolfe of Ralph Nader's Health Research Group testified that Premarin and similar estrogens "may be causing an excess of 8 to 16 thousand cancers in these women." He charged that the pills are being overprescribed by doctors and are "not warranted" for at least 75 per cent of the women taking them.

DR. WOLFE based his remarks on the medical journal study. However, Dr. Bayly claimed the study was "not scientific" and that the conclusions thus are not necessarily valid.

Dr. Bayly estimated that more than 50 per cent of menopausal women have estrogen withdrawal symptoms as their bodies cease to produce high levels of the hormone. These symptoms include dryness of tissues, hot flashes, night sweats and character changes.

Low dosages of estrogen, Dr. Bayly said, eliminate all of these symptoms and have also been shown to delay or eliminate the occurrence of breast cancer.

He said most women are on low dosages — from .6 to 1.25 milligrams every two or three days.

However, physicians must be careful to evaluate how much estrogen a women's body is still producing so that, combined with a pill, it will not be too much, Dr. Bayly said. Dosages should be started low and increased if necessary, he said adding that symptoms of too much estrogen are bleeding and breast tenderness.

BUT DR. BAYLY acknowledged that higher dosages of estrogen "could cause cancer" as well as blood clots. Such dosages should only be given "for good reason and with acceptance of the risks," he said.

The FDA panel is hearing testimony from medical, industry and other sources in preparation for re-evaluating policy on estrogen usage.

Blood type and RH factor

I have a question that concerns a paternity possibility. Can a male with type O positive blood and a female with type A positive blood produce a baby with Rh positive blood?

If this combination isn't possible what would the combination have to be? Any information will be gratefully appreciated.

The basic blood type, A, B, AB, or O has no effect at all on whether the baby will be Rh positive or negative. They are separate gene characteristics. If both parents are Rh positive, you should expect the baby to be Rh positive, regardless of the baby's blood type.

About 15 per cent of Caucasians are Rh negative while those with a pure black genetic background are almost always Rh positive.

It is important to know your blood type, including whether or not you are Rh positive. An Rh negative woman can be protected against the problems associated with having an Rh positive child if she is treated properly with each pregnancy. That includes miscarriages or abortions for whatever cause. We do not need to have babies born that have difficulties because of the Rh factor.

If you want more information on the Rh problem, send in 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 6-4, Blood Type, Rh Factor and Transfusions, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Just send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, 78292.

I would like some information concerning cod liver oil for the 50 to 60 age group. Should it be taken every day? Is it beneficial to the bones? Will it help dry skin when taken orally? Should it be taken a specific time of the day

I'm sure most children think cod liver oil should be given only to those in the 50 to 60 age group. The truth is that the once time-honored practice of taking that awful tasting medicine is no longer necessary. It was used mostly in the days before scientists were able to manufacture vitamin D. It was helpful when the diets were inadequate and in northern cities where there was very little sunlight. No doubt it helped prevent many cases of rickets.

I notice you are from Canada, and in those northern regions you may not get as much sun as you might need to form vitamin D. In most southern climates with reasonable sun exposure the skin will manufacture adequate amounts of vitamin D.

If you need vitamin D, you can take it in a vitamin pill or as prescribed by your doctor. I don't really favor taking excess amounts as you might get from the daily practice of taking cod liver oil on your own. A lot of your food is now enriched with vitamin D, such as milk. Taking too many rich sources of vitamin D, as in cod liver oil, plus vitamins can put you in danger of taking an excess amount of vitamin D. That can be bad for your bones and lead to calcium deposits in your kidneys.

Remember there is an optimal amount of everything, including vitamin D. A good diet is your best assurance of the optimal amount. If you need something better, let your doctor decide what and how much for your own case.

Counter needs high temp protection

Dear Dorothy: A hot pan was placed on our laminated plastic counter top. Result: a "burn ring." The counter top is white with gold flecks. Is there any way to get rid of the mark? —Gloria C. Riggleman

It sounds like a deep burn. If so, there isn't anything you can do except have another piece put in or — if the burn is in a convenient spot — cover the area with a cutting board.

Several years ago I checked the manufacturer of this material. He said nothing with a temperature higher than 275 degrees should be placed on these tops without some protection underneath. I promptly wanted to know how one takes the temperature of a roaster filled with cooked short ribs and a little liquid.

Anyway, on less than deep burns, readers have been innovative. Some have rubbed off scorch marks with a paste of 4-F pumice or fine emery paper; one used a paste of dishwasher detergent and water — leaving it on for 30 minutes, then rinsing it off; another squirted on a solution of chlorine bleach and water which lightened the stain so it wasn't the same eyesore. Ever since the first burn I've kept a metal asbestos pad at one side of the stove.

Dear Dorothy: This is a report back on the chemical freezer cans. Bought a carton of four small cans which I froze. Wrapped each in foil to help retain the cold and taped them around a package of frozen meat that was going to travel quite a distance. It arrived in the solid state. Thanks for another great tip. —Marlene Stander.

Soroptimist deadline Jan. 5 for two awards

Deadlines are approaching for two awards to be presented by Soroptimist International of Des Plaines and Midwestern Region.

The awards include the annual $100 Youth Citizenship Award to be presented to an outstanding high school senior boy or girl from the Northwest suburbs, and the Soroptimist Foundations Award for training to qualify a deserving woman for employment in a higher skilled job.

A Jan. 5 deadline has been set for the citizenship award. The $1,000 training award, also with a Jan. 5 deadline, is for part or full-time non-academic study or schooling for a mature woman.

A $1,500 regional scholarship, for advanced degree in nursing and other fields, has a March 1 deadline.

Information and application forms for all three awards may be obtained by calling any Soroptimist committee member: Peggy Wetter, 824-1742; Peggy Patterson, 824-1014; Carolyn Krause, 394-1418.

Bridal exposition in early January

A bridal exposition will be held Jan. 3 and 4 from noon to 9 p.m. at the O'Hare Inn, Mannheim and Higgins roads, Des Plaines.

On display will be the latest in wedding fashions, highlighted by the first Bicentennial wedding gown and tuxedo ensemble. Other wedding needs such as florists, caterers, bridal consultants, photographers, jewelers, home and apartment representatives, among many others will be represented.

Question and answer sessions with a panel of experts in banking, religion and medicine will also be featured. General admission is $2. The show is sponsored by Henrici's Restaurants.

Happenings

Northwest Cook County Chapter 545 American Association of Retired Persons will hold its Christmas dinner at the Church of the Cross, 475 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates, Sunday, Dec. 28 followed by gift grab bag and games.

Cards are played every Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. at the Hoffman Estates Park District Barn, 650 W. Higgins Rd. Seniors (over 55 years) are invited. Information, Melvin Biesterfeld 837-7761.

Bustle Of Christmas Past?

THIS YEAR, DON'T LET LAST MINUTE PREPARATION WORRY YOU — LET JEWEL HELP WITH FINE FOODS FOR YOUR HOLIDAY MEAL!

Remember when you were young and the days before Christmas seemed to be the busiest days of the year? Mama seemed to spend most of her time in the kitchen, busily making delicious dishes for Christmas day. Papa would be putting the finishing touches on Christmas packages. And neighbors and friends were always dropping by to wish you a Merry Christmas!

Well, what was true then is still true today! No matter how much you've planned ahead, there's always something left to do for Christmas Day. But don't let the hustle and bustle dampen your holiday spirits. If you still need to shop for your holiday meal, let Jewel lend a helping hand. You'll find we're well stocked with the "last minute" treats you'll need for a scrumptious holiday meal . . . just like old times!

Your Jewel Store Will Open Until 6 P.M. On Christmas Eve, Dec. 24.

Public Notice

Pursuant to Section 4(c) (8) of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended, and regulations of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, notice is hereby given that INDUSTRIAL NATIONAL CORPORATION, 111 Westminster Street, Providence, Rhode Island 02903, a bank holding company proposes to engage through its existing subsidiary known as MORTGAGE ASSOCIATES, INC., Milwaukee, Wisconsin in the following activities: (i) origination and sale of residential mortgages; (ii) servicing of residential mortgage loans; and, (iii) insurance agency for any insurance directly related to an extension of credit or provision of other financial services or otherwise sold as a matter of convenience to the purchaser.

Activity (i) will be conducted within the limitations set forth in Section 225.4(a) (1) of Regulation Y promulgated under Section 4(c) (8) of the Bank Holding Company Act. Activity (ii) will be conducted within the limitations set forth in Section 225.4(a) (3) of the aforesaid Regulation Y. Activity (iii) will be conducted within the limitations set forth in Section 225.4(a) (9) of the aforesaid Regulation Y.

Such activity will be conducted at a new office at: 1443 West Schaumburg Road, Schaumburg, Illinois.

This notice relates to obtaining approval pursuant to Section 4(c) (8) of the Bank Holding Company Act and said regulations so to engage, through such subsidiary, in such activity, at such office, which approval has heretofore been obtained in respect to offices at other locations but not in respect to an office at 1443 West Schaumburg Road, Schaumburg, Illinois.

Persons wishing to comment on this proposal should submit their views in writing within 30 days of the date of publication of this notice to FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF CHICAGO, 230 South LaSalle Street, P.O. Box 834, Chicago, Illinois 60690.

Published in The Herald of Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg Dec. 22, 1975.

Notice of Public Hearing

THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PLAN COMMISSION WILL CONSIDER A REQUEST FOR AN AMENDMENT TO PLANNED DEVELOPMENT ORDINANCE NO. 71-104 TO PERMIT A BUILDING AND A PARKING ADDITION AND ALSO A VARIATION FROM THE 3-STORY HEIGHT LIMITATION.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A PUBLIC HEARING will be held at 8:00 P.M. on Wednesday, January 7, 1976, in the Municipal Building, 33 South Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, Illinois, at which time the Plan Commission will consider a request for an amendment to Planned Development Ordinance No. 71-104 to permit a building and a parking addition and also a variation from the 3-story height limitation on property legally described as follows:

The South 800 feet of the West ½ of the Southeast ¼ of Section 19, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian (except that part thereof lying South of the North line of a strip of land 8 feet wide taken by judgment order, case number 62-CO-5215, filed in the Office of the Registrar of Titles on August 1, 1966 as Document Number 2284261).

Commonly described as 800 West Oakton Street.

Interested persons will be given an opportunity to be heard.

No changes expected in USSR

Detente, Brezhnev here to stay

MOSCOW (UPI) — Detente will go on and so, probably, will Leonid I. Brezhnev.

That is the cautious conclusion of Western diplomats peering into the murky future of Soviet politics.

The soothsayers do not expect radical changes of policy or personnel at next February's Communist Party Congress, which will fix ideological guidelines for the next five years.

ACKNOWLEDGING the Kremlin is still too secretive an institution to make political prophecy anything other than a chancey business, they are reluctant to go beyond the following proposition:

If there is to be a major policy switch, then there will be a change of leadership too. At present there is no sign of either.

"Detente is very much on the rails," a Western diplomat said.

It is hailed day in and day out in Soviet newspapers. The catchall phrase is that it "must be extended to the military sphere and made irreversible."

WHAT COULD derail detente is the different conceptions of the policy held here and in the West.

One diplomat put it this way:

"Detente is a bad word for the policy. To many Westerners it suggests entente, which suggests an alliance, and when the Soviets don't behave like allies, people think detente is not working."

Professional diplomats believe such attitudes in the West stem from a misunderstanding of the Soviet conception of the policy.

AS THE KREMLIN sees it, detente is a policy which creates an international framework within which business may be conducted without the risk of nuclear conflict. Nothing more.

The ideological battle continues, as French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing was sharply reminded on a recent visit here. So too do pressures for power and influence round the world.

There is no reason to believe the Congress will move away from this policy.

Though detente has been very much the personal concern of Brezhnev, he shrewdly has followed a consensus policy in pushing it through, ensuring his fellow rulers are associated with it as irrevocably as he is and therefore equally vulnerable to the effects of failure.

"If the Congress wanted to drop detente, it would have to dump Brezhnev," one Kremlinologist said. "The Soviets change the actors when they change the scenario."

WHILE BREZHNEV would be the principal victim in any such policy change, his very downfall would bring down other Politburo members. It is unlikely the cautious men in gray suits who rule the Soviet Union these days would welcome the upheaval of wholesale changes.

There is a growing belief in Moscow now that despite his health problems, Brezhnev will stay on beyond the party congress.

For one thing, there is no obvious successor. For another there is no indication his periodic sicknesses are totally incapacitating.

When Brezhnev led the palace coup that ousted Nikita S. Khrushchev in 1964, he had been groomed already by Khrushchev for the top job, though he did not emerge as the dominant figure for a year or two more.

BUT BREZHNEV has favored no heir apparent. He may not intend to do so. What probably will happen is that new blood will be introduced into the Politburo at the Congress and this could give a hint to the way the leadership will go.

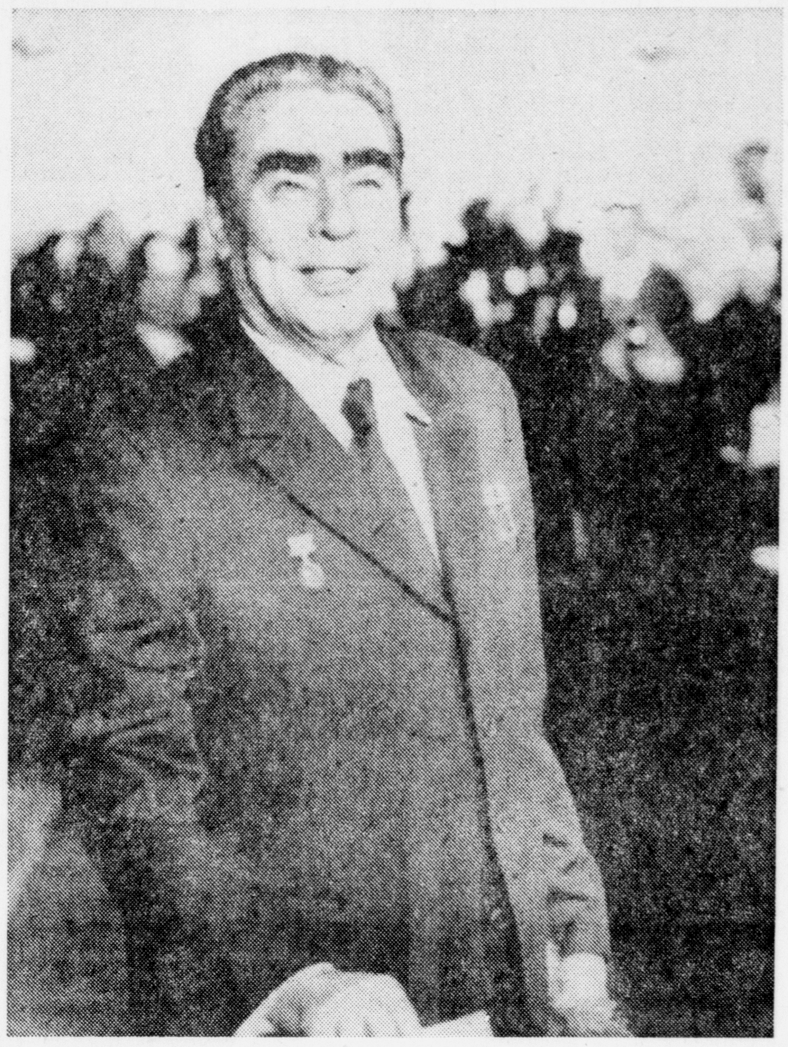
"There have been 10 years of Brezhnev's careful and largely successful rule," an analyst here said. "There could well be another one or two and then any ups or downs are possible."

The Soviet media have taken pains recently to portray Brezhnev as an energetic and hard-working leader. Since returning from summer vacation, he has made numerous trips to Moscow airport to greet visitors, has been filmed at length and in close-up with visitors such as the American astronauts and recently stood more than two hours atop the Lenin Mausoleum for the Revolution Day parade.

All this seems to be aimed at projecting an effective full-time ruler, hardly a picture that would be put forward if his future were in doubt.

Otherwise the principal range of Soviet policies is expected to be reaffirmed by the party congress — tough on human rights, legalistic on East-West contacts, inflexible on emigration, exploratory on weapons' limitation, eager on technology, carefully cooperative on space and orthodox on economy.

"There is no sign of another revolution," one expert said.



DETENTE WILL GO on and so, probably will Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist Party leader. That is the cautious conclusion of western diplomats peering into the murky future of Soviet politics.

'Hawaii Five-O' star, CBS subsidiary lose $50,000 in suit

• Jack Lord, star of the "Hawaii Five-O" television series, and Viacom International lost $50,000 in a civil case Friday. A Circuit Court jury in Hawaii awarded the money to Grover Kam and Great Ideas, Inc., a sportswear firm, after finding Lord and the Columbia Broadcasting System subsidiary guilty of breaking a contract. Kam and Great Ideas charged that Lord and Viacom disapproved a "Hawaii Five-O" design for a line of sportswear even though they had no right of approval clause in the contract.

• Rock star Alice Cooper has sued independent promoter Gary Naseef because he wasn't paid $47,500 for a one-week performance at the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel. Cooper's corporation, Black Widow, Inc., charged in a breach of contract suit that $25,000 of the show's gate receipts went to another Naseef-promoted rock group — Three Dog Night. Three Dog Night apparently obtained a court injunction against Naseef, who defaulted on his contract, and had Cooper's gate receipts attached. Records indicated Naseef signed a $25,000 contract with Three Dog Night to appear at the Sahara-Tahoe showroom in September. But Naseef reportedly backed out of the contract and Three Dog Night attached Cooper's receipts. Cooper's suit claimed that because of the attachment, he has yet to receive half the $100,000 he was promised for the engagement.

• New York Gov. Hugh Carey said he bumped into Spiro Agnew last week in a Manhattan bar and was heartened to see the former vice president was "rehabilitating himself." The governor said he was in Clarke's, a bar on Third Avenue, when he ran into Agnew. "I did bump into the former vice president there and I am very much interested in the rehabilitation of those who have gone through the process of justice and I'm glad to see that he's rehabilitating himself," Carey said.

• Retired Col. James Quincy Collins, one of the first 10 prisoners of war to return from Vietnam, will be married Christmas Eve to Mrs. Jo Cross Aldred of Charlotte. Mrs. Aldred, a divorcee, said she and Collins, who spent 7½ years in a North Vietnamese POW camp, would be married at her home. They will leave immediately for a honeymoon in Barbados, she said.

• Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and his family are in Hawaii for a Christmas vacation at the secluded Mauna Kea Beach luxury hotel built by his brother, Laurance, a decade ago. The vice president was met by Mayor Herbert Matayoshi and local beauty queens bearing flower leis in the only ceremony planned. Rockefeller's aides said he would not be available for comment or public appearances during his 10-day stay.
